

Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro told a nationwide television audience Thursday night that he holds shattered fuselage parts of a light plane which he said was based in the United States and which planned to bomb Cuban sugar mills. He said the plane exploded over Matanzas province killing its two occupants. Castro says he has documentary proof they were Americans.

Soviet Chief Wins Cheers In Indonesia

School Children, Peasants Applaud Khrushchev on Tour

Bogor, Indonesia — Nikita S. Khrushchev set out today on his 1,400-mile tour of Indonesia with President Sukarno going along and leading the cheers for the Soviet premier.

Leaving the sweltering heat of Jakarta, Khrushchev was lively and in good humor on reaching this cool mountain city in the west Java hills.

Flag-waving children, who had been given a holiday, and grinning sarong-clad peasants cheered the visiting Soviet leader along the 40-mile route from Jakarta to this city 870 feet above sea level.

Guest at Palace Khrushchev is spending the night at Sukarno's presidential summer palace, giving the two statesmen a chance to exchange views in private before settling down to formal talks Feb. 27.

The Soviet premier's first stop on his tour was the site of a 100,000-seat stadium being built for the 1962 Asian games on the outskirts of Jakarta with a $7 million Soviet loan.

Half jesting and yet with a hint of seriousness, he urged the Russian and Indonesian engineers on the project to vie in friendly competition so the stadium would be finished in time for the games.

The Indonesian president waved an open black umbrella like a cheer leader as Khrushchev put on an act for the crowd of several thousand gathered at the muddy site.

Labor Leader Should Spend His Time on Defense, Senator Says

Post-Crescent News Service Green Bay — Sen. John F. Kennedy advised Teamster President James Hoffa Thursday to use his time in preparing his defense for a court charge of misuse of union funds rather than coming in to Wisconsin to take part in the presidential primary campaign.

Plane Crashes Near School

3 Men Killed in Accident Just East of Cincinnati

Cincinnati — Three men were killed today when a private airplane crashed just east of here, 50 feet from a school where hundreds of children were attending classes.

The victims were not immediately identified. The 2-engine plane, apparently in trouble, narrowly missed St. Gertrude's Catholic school in Madiera, where 650 children were in class.

There was only one house in the immediate vicinity and it was not touched by the plane or debris.

Saw Plane Plunge Walter Chapman, who lives nearby, said the plane, coming from the east, plunked into a gully at full power. It caught fire immediately.

Firemen, doctors, ambulance workers and policemen were unable to get close enough to the burning mass to identify the plane.

It was described as being large enough to care for from four to six passengers.

James McCullough, a Cincinnati policeman, said wreckage was scattered over a quarter mile area.

Frank Bailey, 27, a gasoline station employee, said he saw the plane coming from the east. He said the engines sputtered and then the plane dived downward.

Sister Mary John, principal of the school, said she was standing near a door when she heard and then saw the plane.

World Police Envisioned for Arms Program

U. S. May Propose International Plan To Halt Aggression

Washington — The United States was reported today shaping a new disarmament program designed to shift the job of keeping world peace to international military forces.

As envisioned by Sec. of State, Christian A. Herter, national military forces and nuclear armament would be progressively brought under a system of international inspection and reduced. At the same time, some kind of international police force, probably set up through the United Nations, would be brought up to a strength sufficient to prevent aggressions by any nation.

Proposals for Reds Representatives of the United States, Britain, France, Canada and Italy have been meeting here for several weeks to develop proposals for presentation to Russia and four other Soviet bloc countries at a disarmament conference opening in Geneva March 15.

Whatever the final form of the U.S. program, it will be developed in consultation with those allies during the next three weeks.

The 2-stage U.S. approach was outlined by Herter yesterday in a National Press club speech.

Dirksen Asks for Civil Rights Speed

Washington — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois urged today that the senate pass a civil rights bill as quickly as possible rather than wait for the house to act.

This was in direct conflict with the reported strategy of the Democratic leadership to let the house pass a bill first and then to try to prevail on the senate to accept the measure.

A bill embodying most but not all of the Eisenhower administration's civil rights program was cleared for house consideration next month by a 7-4 vote of the rules committee yesterday.

The committee also specifically provided for consideration of an amendment to carry out the administration proposal for court-appointed referees to protect Negro voting rights.

However, Rep. Howard W. Smith (D-Va.), the committee chairman, said the bill will not be called up in the house until March 10.

This means it probably will be March 16 or 17, and possibly several days later, before the house will be able to pass the bill and send it to the senate.

In the senate, the civil rights debate started Monday when an unrelated house-passed bill was called up and thrown open to civil rights amendments.

Queen Elizabeth Gives Birth to Son

Infant Takes Second Place in Royal Line of Succession

London — Queen Elizabeth II gave birth to a boy — her second son — today. She and the infant prince were doing well.

Bells rang out the joyful news across a nation which had waited tensely through the 33-year-old queen's long and somewhat anxious confinement.

The birth came more than 30 hours after she called in her doctors.

A carnival air swept through London. The great bells of London's churches pealed out the news. Crowds began to swarm to the palace in increasing numbers.

2,000 At Palace Outside Buckingham palace a crowd of more than 2,000 cheered wildly as a palace official pinned up a handwritten bulletin giving the news of the birth.

The child's weight was not announced immediately. His name will be a secret until the christening, perhaps months from now. A likely choice is James.

The baby, first born to a reigning British monarch in 103 years, takes second place in the line of succession to the throne — after his 11-year-old brother, Prince Charles, and ahead of his 9-year-old sister, Princess Anne.

The official bulletin said: "The queen was safely delivered of a son at 3:30 p.m. today.

"Her majesty and the infant prince are both doing well." It was signed by the queen's gynecologist and obstetrician, John Peel, and her physicians, Sir John Weir and Lord Evans.

There were indications that Elizabeth II had undergone a somewhat difficult labor. Peel, the 55-year-old gynecologist, had been with her almost constantly since then. He spent all last night at the palace.

Assisting him at the delivery were Evans, Weir, and Dr. Vernon Hall, an anesthesiologist.

The time-honored palace announcement that the doctors "are in attendance" upon the queen came at 2:15 p.m. By tradition, this phrase signals

60-Day Stay For Chessman

U. S. Feared Effect Execution Would Have on Ike's Tour

San Francisco — Caryl Chessman, condemned to death 12 years ago as a perverted sex kidnaper, won his eighth reprieve from the San Quentin gas chamber early today after an appeal from the U. S. Department of State.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown, acting against all odds and in the face of a state supreme court recommendation opposing clemency, ordered a 60-day stay less than 10 hours before the celebrated criminal was scheduled to die.

The governor said he ordered the stay because of a state department telegram warning that execution of Chessman might lead to hostile demonstrations in Uruguay and Brazil against President Eisenhower during the president's forthcoming visit to South America.

People To Decide "If the people, acting through their elected representatives, determine that the present law should be continued in effect, Caryl Chessman will be executed under the law," Brown said.

"I hope the legislature will abolish capital punishment, but I of course, will abide by the law," Brown said.

2 Suspects Face Trial In Arkansas Bombing

Little Rock, Ark. — Two men of her own race were charged today with bombing the home of a Negro student of Central High school in the latest outbreak of violence over integration here.

They were named as Maceo Antonio Binns, Jr., 31-year-old handyman, and Herbert Odell Monts, 17-year-old student at Horace Mann High School for Negroes.

Binns and Monts were charged with damaging property with explosives, the same charge brought against five white men in three bombings here last September.

The home of Carlotta Walls, 16, was bombed the night of Feb. 9. She is one of eight Negroes who now attend once-white high schools here.

The bombing was believed to be the first directed at the home of an integrated Negro student in the south since the U.S. Supreme court ordered desegregation of schools in 1954.

Motive Not Given The arrest of Binns and Monts was announced jointly by police and the FBI, who offered no motive.

Earlier in the week, Gov. Orval Faubus had pointed out the possibility the blast could have been set by integrationists to rekindle trouble.

The Little Rock school board office, the business office of Mayor Werner Knoop and a city owned station wagon were dynamited Labor day.

No one was injured in any of the bombings. Carlotta, her mother and two younger sisters, were in the 6-room brick house when the bombings occurred. The father, Cartleyou Walls, 37, a brick mason, was visiting his father up the street when the blast occurred.

Soviets Threaten To Yield Berlin Access to Reds

Bonn — The Soviet embassy called an unusual news conference today and repeated the threat to turn over control of western access to Berlin to the East German satellite regime.

The threat was contained in a memorandum handed by Soviet Ambassador Andrei Smirnov last Jan. 13 to Erich Ollenhauer, chairman of the opposition socialist party.

The 7-page memorandum repeated the Russian proposal that West Berlin be turned into an internationalized free city and said anew that if this could not be achieved the Russians would sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany.

Storm Closes Turnpike

Hundreds of Motorists Seek Refuge in Pennsylvania Cafes

Somerset, Pa. — The week's second big snowstorm shut down a 175-mile stretch of the Pennsylvania turnpike today, causing huge traffic jams and forcing hundreds of motorists to seek refuge in restaurants.

The biggest traffic tieups occurred in the Somerset area, where snow accumulation was reported up to 18 inches.

One jam stretched from the Somerset interchange to the Laurel Hill tunnel, tying up eastbound traffic for about nine miles. Another halted all traffic at the Allegheny tunnel.

Hundreds of motorists sought refuge in the Howard Johnson restaurants while others left the turnpike and drove to hotels and motels.

Some abandoned their cars and either walked or hitched a ride to the establishments. Hundreds packed into two restaurants across the highway from each other one quarter mile east of Somerset.

"There is standing room only," said Doris Gunder, 28-year-old waitress from Somerset.

"They're just standing around talking," she added. "Most of them are pretty patient. They're not going anywhere."

State police said hundreds of cars were left stranded and many trucks jackknifed. All major highways in area with the exception of route 30 (Lincoln highway) were closed.

Agreement to End Walkout

Chicago — A strike-ending settlement with Wilson & company has been accepted by members of the United Packinghouse Workers union, reliable sources said today.

However, UPWA officials delayed announcement of the ratification details pending arrival of Ralph Helstein, president of the union, who was reported enroute from Omaha to Chicago.

One union source said he "would not quarrel" with reports that a majority of the seven locals and the total Wilson department UPWA members voting accepted the pact, although some locals rejected it.

Nelson Doubts Tax Plan Will be Ready

Governor Says He Will Take Public Position on Citizen Commission Revision When Set

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — Gov. Nelson says he will take a public position on his blue ribbon citizens commission's tax revision recommendations if the group completes its report and prepares proposals in time for the reconvening of the legislature on May 16.

But the governor told reporters late Thursday that he continues to have doubts that the commission will be able to prepare a "complete and comprehensive revision program" by that time.

Nearing Decision

Reminded that the commission is evidently nearing a decision about a sales tax or income tax increases as an avenue for local property tax relief, Nelson said that a revision blueprint must also carefully chart a distribution formula and that the distribution problem is likely to be an extremely difficult one to resolve.

(One of the reasons why the Republicans in the state legislature insisted upon a recess of the legislature instead of final adjournment was their desire to force the governor to take a position on the tax revision report before the fall gubernatorial election. Most observers agree that it would be difficult for Nelson to object to findings by a commission of his own choosing, and that it may also be difficult for him to endorse its proposals during a campaign year and especially if the commission leans toward the controversial sales tax against which the Democratic party has campaigned for years.)

The governor's doubt that his study commission can report on the problem of distributing possible new state tax revenues finds some support in the record.

Many Complications Preliminary explorations have convinced the members that the matter has infinite complications because of the varying fiscal resources of localities — some are rich and some are poor in local tax resources — and because of the special interests involved in the existing distribution rules.

Nelson also commented that he is pleased that two prospective Republican opponents for the governorship, Philip Kuehn of Whitefish Bay and Jack Olson of Wisconsin Dells, appear in their campaign speeches to agree upon the need for refashioning the state tax structure to lessen the burden upon property taxpayers.

"I'm glad that they now agree with what I've been saying for the last two years," he remarked. "They (the Republicans) had 20 years to work on tax revision but they ignored the problem."

Later he observed that "the tax revision job might have been done earlier if it had been easy." The Wisconsin tax structure grew into its present pattern because of political pressures over the years, he conceded, and it may be difficult to change even now.

Switch 4,000 Times Faster Than Any Known to Science

Los Angeles — This is pretty fast. A new device can switch electric current on and off in the length of time it takes light to travel several inches. Light travels 186,000 miles per second.

The switch is 4,000 times faster than any other known to science, Dr. Robert N. Hall told the Institute of Radio Engineers Thursday night.

Extensive application of it is expected in high-speed computers, communications equipment and nuclear controls, he said.

The gadget was named the Esaki Tunnel Diode after a Japanese physicist who recently perfected it, said Dr. Hall, physicist for the General Electric company research laboratories, Schenectady, N. Y.

Insurance for Young Drivers Up Sharply

Rate for Married, Or Over 25 Years Persons About Same

Madison — The cost of automobile insurance for single Wisconsin drivers under 25 has soared during the last 10 years.

State insurance department figures Thursday show rates for drivers who are married or over 25 have gone up only a few dollars.

The rate boosts are blamed on higher repair costs and court awards for damages. Wisconsin kept its accident and claims record at about the same level since 1955, the department said, while other states continued to show increases.

Cost in Superior

Superior has the costliest claim per driver average in the state. The department said rates reflect a city's accident rate and its attitude toward law enforcement, payment of claims and medical bills.

An increase in the number of costly accidents on country roads, the department noted, has pushed upward rates for drivers living in rural areas. They once had the lowest rate scale.

Although rates for minimum coverage vary from company to company, the department reports, the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters rates reflect average costs.

Rate Comparison

A comparison of bureau rates for persons over 25 who don't drive to work is shown for these selected cities for 1950 and this year:

Madison, La Crosse, Green Bay, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac and Sheboygan, $41.10 compared to the present $45; Milwaukee, $45.70 and $57.80; Superior, $62.85 and $62.20; and western rural areas, $36.80 and $46.60.

For unmarried drivers under 25 the rates are 140.60 for Madison, La Crosse, Green Bay, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac and Sheboygan compared with $58.10 in 1950; Milwaukee, $66 and $179; Superior, $89.25 and $224.60; and western rural areas, $51.80 and $168.20.

Police Captor Says Van Rei Argued Over Woman's Death

Boston — Willem van Rei's police captor testified today the Dutch radio operator argued with him that Lynn Kauffman's shipboard death was not murder, but only manslaughter.

Capt. Joseph B. Fallon, a scholarly bespectacled head of the Boston police homicide squad, told an all-male jury at Van Rei's first degree murder trial that he brought the 31-year-old defendant back to Boston Oct. 6 after his arrest in New York.

Fallon added of their conversation on the train: "I asked him why he followed the sea, how long he'd been in the service—we talked of many things. Then he said, 'This bothers me. Why should there be a murder warrant? You told me she died of drowning. That's manslaughter, not murder.'"

The state has charged Van Rei beat the 23-year-old Chicago divorcee aboard his ship, the Utrecht, and then threw her overboard to drown in Boston harbor Sept. 18 — a charge it has labeled as murder.

A statement Fallon said he took from Van Rei last Sept. 30 in a Brooklyn police station was put on record over defense objections today. Fallon then recounted that after taking the statement he called Van Rei's skipper, Capt. A. J. De Bruijn, to the office. He continued:

"The captain came into the office. The defendant said, 'Captain I know how you feel about this, but I have been sleeping with Lynn.' I said, 'Captain he has told us he was in her cabin and I want him to repeat it to you. The defendant said he told us he was in Lynn's Cabin and hit but was a lie.

"The captain said, 'This is a fine place to tell a lie.' The captain said, 'Why lie to Captain Fallon, he's on our side.' Fallon, a suave investigator, told the jury Van Rei said he "completely" realized he could "break me" on the evidence they had.

He said the wireless man wanted to talk to him alone when he interviewed him in a Brooklyn police station but that Fallon preferred to have other officers present.

Fallon read the part of Van Rei's purported statement concerning his visit to Lynn's cabin the night of Sept. 18. He quoted the defendant as saying he had been there only about a minute.

The state contends it was about that time that the girl was thrown overboard to her death.

Diary Found Near Remains

Tentative Identification for Five Crew Members of Mystery Airplane

Wiesbaden, Germany — A U. S. military team today tentatively identified the bodies of five crew members of the World War II ghost bomber "Lady be Good" found deep in the North African desert.

A diary found near the remains indicated the men had died after a trek of 85 miles and at least eight days in the sun-scorched Libyan wastes after bailing out of the 4-engine bomber.

The latest report on one of the second world war's major mysteries was relayed to the U. S. air force's European headquarters here from Wheelus air force base in Libya.

Identify Bodies

The air force gave these tentative identifications of the five bodies:

1st Lt. William J. Hatton, pilot, 146-22 22nd avenue, Whitestone, Queens, New York.

2nd Lt. Robert F. Toner, copilot, brother of Mrs. Gertrud O. Emerson, North Attleboro, Mass.

2nd Lt. D. P. Hayes, navigator, Lee's Summit, Mo. Tech. Sgt. Robert E. Damotte, crew member, Lake Linden, Mich.

Staff Sgt. Samuel R. Adams, crew member, Eureka, Ill. The Liberator carried a crew of nine who bailed out over the desert on their return from a bombing raid on Naples, Italy, April 4, 1943.

Air force investigators believe that they decided to parachute after the plane ran out of gas. The unmanned bomber later glided to an almost perfect landing. It was found 500 miles from the coast by an oil exploration crew 10 months ago, virtually intact and with water jugs still filled. The five bodies were found by oil men earlier this month after two extensive search operations last year had been unsuccessful.

Kept Diary Date on the last days of the five men was pieced together from the diary and other evidence. Air force officials said this indicated that three others left the group to continue their search for help — at a point hundreds of miles from the regular caravan trails.

These three are believed to have been Sgts. Harold S. Ripsinger, Saginaw, Mich. Guy E. Sheeley of New Cumberland, Pa., and Vernon L. Moore, New Boston, Ohio.

The ninth man, 2nd Lt. John S. Woravka, of Cleveland, Ohio, failed to join the other eight after parachuting from the plane, evidence at the scene indicated.

According to the diary, the five whose remains were found reached their final location about 55 miles north of the plane on April 9, five days after they bailed out.

The last entry in the diary was on April 12, but the exact date of death was not determined.

Indications in the diary eliminated the possibility that the remaining bodies would be found in the immediate area, air force officials said. There was no word on whether a new search was being considered.

The mortuary team announced that final identification of the bodies would not be made until they are brought out and examined closely.

Post-Crescent Editor Named to State Committee Madison — A special committee of the Governor's Commission on Human Rights has been named to study the preparation of legislation to outlaw discrimination because of race, color or religion in buying homes in Wisconsin.

Named to the committee Thursday were Victor Minahan, editor of the Appleton Post-Crescent, the Rev. Perry Salto of Stevens Point and Emil Drubac of Milwaukee.

Members of the commission pointed out at the bimonthly meeting that Wisconsin has laws against discrimination in public accommodations, employment and public housing, but nothing on private housing.

House Trying to Find Air Force Officers Who Approved Training Aid

Search Not Aimed at Punishing Men But to Learn Where Approval Responsibility Lies

Washington — House investigators are out to identify air force officers who approved training manuals detailing dog washing and martini mixing and describing the clergy as infiltrated by communists.

"We're not out simply to make trouble for the people who wrote these ridiculous books," Rep. Melvin Price (D-Ill.) said. "They were the mechanics. We want to find out where the fault lies for the final approval. Obviously those responsible took the material for granted and didn't scrutinize it."

Price is chairman of a house armed services subcommittee which opened a general inquiry Thursday into armed services training publications as the latest controversial air force manual came to light.

Preliminary Check Designed for officers' club secretaries, the manual goes into such matters as getting dates for bachelors and correcting bartenders' tendency to show they are good fellows by overpouring drinks.

Price said the subcommittee staff will make a preliminary check of armed services publications, eliminating from consideration the great majority which are purely technical guides.

Price's subcommittee originally was set up to study allegations of misuse of manpower.

No Benefit "Producing these things was certainly improper use of manpower," he remarked. "The services aren't getting any benefit from these manuals, just trouble."

As the Price subcommittee began its investigation, Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.) and the American Council of Christian Churches questioned whether the "communist infiltration" manual had been withdrawn too hastily.

Charges Correct The manual said, among other things, that 30 of the 95 persons who prepared a revised standard version of the Bible under sponsorship of the National Council of Churches "have been affiliated with pro-communist fronts projects and publications."

Twin Brothers Plan Celebration

Texas — Two 80-year-old twins will climax their birthday celebration here Saturday by riding an 1890 bike down the street that separates Texas from Arkansas.

Terry Feild and his brother Talbot, of Little Rock, Ark., were 80 Wednesday.

Talbot said he bought the bike, called a 48-inch Columbia light roadster in 1906 for $3. He and his twin started their celebration by riding the bike, which has a 48-inch front wheel, around the Albert Pike hotel in Little Rock.

Terry, who lives here, said they would serve coffee to older folks at a stand they're setting up on the state line. Kids dies will get balloons.

Mayor Haskell Hay of Texarkana, Ark., and State Sen. Jack Clark of Arkansas will make speeches at noon about the brother's birthday.

Primary Vital, Kennedy Says Repeatedly

Candidate Must Run In State Races to Receive Nomination

Post-Crescent News Service
Green Bay — Sen. John Kennedy climbed aboard his private Convair at Austin Straubel field at 10:30 p.m. Thursday and headed for New Hampshire. A snow storm interfered, and he wound up in Washington.

But Kennedy's original destination and the purpose of his flight, more campaigning for New Hampshire's March 8 primary, underlined the theme of a 10-hour Green Bay visit which concluded a 3-day tour of southeastern Wisconsin and the Fox Valley.

The theme is that to get the Democratic presidential nomination, candidates should run in state primaries. And while Kennedy is running in seven primaries from coast to coast, candidates like Sen. Lyndon Johnson and Sen. Stuart Symington are sitting them out.

Kennedy made this point repeatedly as he reminded his audiences of the importance of the Wisconsin April 5 primary. He said the outcome might well decide what happens at the Democratic national convention.

"No president has been elected in this century who hasn't run in the primaries. I don't think these Democratic candidates can be nominated if they don't run in these primaries. . . and win," Kennedy said on a WJPG press panel program.

Kennedy excluded Adlai Stevenson from the requirement of running in the primaries because he has been before the voters twice. He said he was willing to accept Stevenson's word that he is not an active candidate.

Only in event of a long deadlocked convention would Stevenson be a factor, Kennedy said. He quickly add that "I don't think there will be a deadlocked convention."

Kennedy's Green Bay area visit opened with a welcome by 900 cheering and sign-waving St. Norbert college students and ended with more than 1,500 persons jamming the Hotel Northland to shake hands with him and his wife, Jacqueline, at an affair which had been labeled a reception.

Kennedy touched all the political bases between shaking hands with workmen changing shifts at Charmin Paper mills to pointing out that those present at the reception included "an old friend of mine who has moved to Green Bay and made a big success." Vince Lombardi, Packer head coach. The reception crowd jammed the hotel ballroom and spilled over into balconies and a room off the main lobby. Kennedy made only brief general remarks and did not use a prepared speech on increasing the minimum wage and improving unemployment compensation which had been distributed.

90-Minute Line
With Atty. Gen. John Reynolds, who is from Green Bay, the senator and his wife then shook hands as a line of people moved before them for 90 minutes.

What might have been more important than the size of the crowd was that it included many persons not normally involved with politics and no small number of persons with Republican reputations.

It was, for Green Bay, a new type of political meeting. A reported 3,500 hand-addressed invitations were mailed to women. Many of the women who were present were dressed to the teeth, and coffee and cookies were served in formal style.

Invitations for the affair were printed in formal style, but two facets of practical politics were added. In one corner, the invitation was expanded to include all friends. The other corner had a label to prove the invitations were printed by union labor.

Nelson Cites Too Much Emphasis on Extra-Curricular School Activities

Too much emphasis may be being placed on extra-curricular activities in Wisconsin schools, Gov. Gaylord Nelson said Thursday night.

The Wisconsin chief executive, speaking before a Founder's day banquet of the Fox Valley Chapter of the Wisconsin Alumni association at the Elks club, said, "We do not adequately tax the abilities of our children—they must be required to perform as closely as possible to their own maximum level."

Nelson, whose address was restricted to education and its related problems, said we must look deeper into how we are spending the students' time.

Natural Science
He cited the expenditure of 96 cents out of every educational research dollar on the natural sciences. "Not that natural science is not important," the governor declared.

4 AHS Seniors Named Finalists For Scholarships

Four Appleton High school seniors are finalists in the 1959-60 National Merit Scholarship competition and have been given certificates of merit. They are William Barney, Alfred Bradford, Jr., Robert Recker and Susan Ward.

Scholarship winners, selected from among 10,000 national finalists, will be announced in April. The merit scholars and the colleges they attend will share in several million dollars offered by 110 organizations and individuals and by the corporation. Funds are awarded partly on the basis of need.

Wisconsin" as the major reasons behind the financial problems in educational circles today.

He said "I could have balanced our state budget simply by standing on the same school aid appropriation as in the previous biennium. Instead I saw the need for a $38 million increase in the appropriation for state aids."

It is ironic, the governor said, that it was the state senator from this area, along with some editorial writers, who were the major critics of his school budget.

Budget Chopped
"The budget was chopped by the majority in the state senate and now, we find, that there is insufficient funds remaining to equip your own Menasha extension center."

"The same people who so strongly attacked my budget are now asking 'where is the money?' in regard to the extension center."

This, the governor said, was irresponsible criticism.

Nelson has plugged for more money for teacher salaries. He cited the great emphasis in Russia on education, saying their teachers were being paid proportionately more money than those in America.

Nelson renewed his demand of building obsolescence in

Seaway Report

Green Bay Ranks Ninth In Shipping Tonnage

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — Green Bay ranked ninth among Great Lakes ports in overseas tonnage during the first year of the new St. Lawrence seaway and seventh among United States lake ports. But Green Bay slipped from a position of fifth in this tonnage in 1958.

Overseas tonnage figures for 1959 for United States and Canadian Great Lakes ports are contained in a report of the Great Lakes commission. Milwaukee ranked sixth in the report, a drop from fourth in 1958.

The report listed Green Bay overseas commerce in 1959 as totaling 73,857 tons compared with 40,655 tons in 1958. Green Bay ranks sixth in exports with 42,333 tons, compared to 26,728 tons in 1958, and seventh in imports with 31,524 tons, compared to 13,927 in 1958.

Big Grain Shipments
Milwaukee handled 192,273 tons of overseas commerce in 1959, 146,179 tons of which were exports and 46,094 tons of which were imports.

Duluth-Superior, which had only 21,388 tons of overseas commerce in 1958, moved into first position with 1,620,399 tons during the first seaway year because of a boom in grain exports. All but 16,380 tons of overseas commerce in Duluth - Superior was grain in 1959.

Chicago was second in the 1959 rankings with 1,168,618 tons, 384,412 tons of which was grain.

The other leading ports and their overseas tonnage totals in 1959 were:

Toronto, Ont., 713,190; Hamilton, Ont., 259,829; Cleveland, 221,725; Milwaukee, 192,273; Toledo, 114,914; Buffalo 108,263; and Green Bay, 73,857. Kenosha ranked 12th with 14,570 tons almost all of which was automobile shipments.

Four Move Ahead
In addition to Duluth-Superior, Buffalo, Hamilton, Ont., and Toledo moved ahead of Green Bay in 1959 from their 1958 ranking.

The report said overseas traffic in the first seaway year totaled about 4,500,000 net tons compared to 867,464 tons in 1958. Grain shipments increased by 81 per cent, from 563,189 tons in 1958 to nearly 2,000,000 tons in 1959.

General cargo overseas business recorded by 14 United States ports increased by 81 per cent, from 563,289 tons in 1958 to 1,921,600 tons last year.

The report noted that five ports on the west shore of Lake Michigan, including Green Bay and the port of Duluth - Superior recorded exports over imports by a ratio of 51 to 1 due mainly to grain and farm surplus exports. At most other great lakes ports imports exceeded exports.

persons are questioning administration attitudes and the United States can not afford to take a chance that everything is fine.

"I think we ought to discuss it and I don't think it is despicable," Kennedy said in referring to a description used by President Eisenhower this week.

Cuban Question

Kennedy said at St. Norbert that the United States should examine with calmness the price it pays for Cuban sugar in view of the new Cuban agreement to sell to Russia at half of the price to the United States. This country can make Hungary of Cuba by direct interference, he said.

"Castro is leading his country on the road to disaster. I think there will be another figure from up in the hills who will replace Castro," Kennedy predicted.

In answer to another student question, Kennedy said that dairy price supports should be raised. He said Wisconsin farmers are now earning an average of only 50 cents an hour and that "Bill Proxmire and I introduced a bill to restore supports at $3.22, but I think that is still too low."

Iron Curtain

In an addition to a standard college audience speech about the importance of participating in government and politics, Kennedy told the St. Norbert students that a ban on economic aid to countries like Poland should be lifted "to make them less dependent on the Soviet Union and help them look toward the west." In this connection, he also endorsed cultural exchanges and said Russia should be reminded constantly of its past promise for free election in Iron Curtain nations.

At the press conference, Kennedy said he voted for the Chicago water diversion bill from the same national standpoint that he supported the St. Lawrence seaway. He belittled claims that the diversion would effect Great Lakes shipping depth.

This put Kennedy in an opposite position from such Wisconsin supporters as Atty. Gen. John Reynolds.

"I voted for this for the same reasons I voted for the seaway. This was (from a national standpoint) so that water used by people of Chicago would not be polluted," he said.

The UW Urban Study

The University of Wisconsin has selected the Fox River Valley as one of two, or possibly three, areas in the state where it will study modern urban problems under a $1 million grant from the Ford Foundation. The Milwaukee metropolitan area, of course, was the first area chosen. If it is decided to divide the study into three parts, undoubtedly Madison will be added to the list.

As was pointed out by Dean L. H. Adolfson, director of the UW Extension Division, the Ford Foundation grant could mark the beginning of a new era in the services provided the people of Wisconsin by their state university. For over half a century the university has been renowned for its leadership in agricultural education and extension work; this has been a great thing for Wisconsin, especially considering the important (and formerly dominant) role played by agriculture in the state's economy. In the last two decades, however, more and more of our people have been moving into urban areas as industry has displaced agriculture as the state's leading producer of jobs and income.

Wisconsin is fortunate, in a sense, in that its urbanization has come rather late. For we can learn from those states mostly located in the northeastern quarter of the country, which were urbanized much earlier and in some cases much more rapidly, and whose growing pains are apparent today in their teeming, sprawling, soot-ridden, crime-ridden, traffic-choked great cities. If we can learn from their mistakes and their accomplishments, we can provide for those who will come after us in Wisconsin urban communities that are attractive, clean, efficient and pleasant places in which to live.

It is natural and proper that the university should take the lead in searching for answers to our problems of urban living. And we are pleased that the powers-

Farewell to the M-1

Many news stories, though current in nature, have a way of bringing the dim past into distinct focus. Such a story was one which emanated from Washington a few weeks ago and stated rather tersely that the army has begun issuing its new rifle, the M-14, to the troops.

This, ordinarily, would not rate second mention in these columns except for one thing. The arrival of the M-14 means the ultimate departure of the M-1 rifle — one of the best and most famous military weapons ever devised by man.

And, certainly, the passing of the M-1 rifle will be looked upon with nostalgia by those GIs of World War II whose fate it was to slog into battle with only God and an M-1 standing between them and eternity.

The doughfoot of '41-'45 vintage must feel not a little sadness at the passing of the M-1. As his mind turns back nearly 20 years he'll recall the nomenclature of his weapon:

The M-1 rifle is a gas-operated, clip-fed, air-cooled, semi-automatic shoulder weapon. It has three main groups: The trigger housing group, the barrel and receiver group, the stock group. Its weight is 9.5 pounds; its length without bayonet is 43.6 inches; its clip capacity is 8 rounds; its average rate of aimed fire per minute is 30 rounds.

The M-1 to the combat infantryman was like gold to a miser. He slept with it, ate

Kerala Is Not Yet Pure

The success of the anti-Communist forces in the Indian province of Kerala indicates that the Reds, even though they may win support from politically naive peoples of underdeveloped nations, have difficulty holding that support without force. But there have been other influences brought to bear on Kerala.

The province of several million people was ruled for 28 months by the Communists when new elections were planned last summer. These elections, completed this month, show that the Reds have lost all but 20 of their 60 seats in the 126-member legislative assembly. They may have polled more votes than in 1957 but about a million more votes were cast.

But Kerala is far from free of Communist influence. It is likely that the Reds still have won some 35 per cent of the entire vote cast although they have lost all but an irritating group in the assembly. Obviously in recent months the local Reds have been playing down any ties with Red China and emphasizing local projects.

A nation like India, which plunges almost headlong into democratic politics without the years of gradual preparation in representative government and with a population with such a high figure of illiteracy, runs the risk of almost immediate control by totalitarian forces. India, in the voting in Kerala, may just have been lucky and probably owes much of its good fortune to the Reds themselves who overran Tibet and then made threatening noises on the Indian borders.

All in the Mind?

One of Tennessee Williams' better known plays has been made into a movie with an all-star Hollywood cast. The film is an adult treatment of disagreeable subjects including homosexuality and possible incest.

Oddly enough, considering the usual ban on almost anything not aimed at the seventh grade mentality, the Hollywood Production Code was affixed to the film. But a House subcommittee investigating that-be at Madison have recognized the importance of the Fox Valley in this picture. The steady growth and prosperity of this valley have constituted one of the important social and economic developments in Wisconsin in recent years; and the type of urban growth we have experienced here will offer the researchers a chance to study problems that, while essentially the same as those in a large metropolitan area, differ in degree and detail from them.

It has not yet been decided whether the Fox Valley study will embrace only the Fox Cities (it will be headquartered at the new UW Extension Center being built between Appleton and Menasha) or whether it will be expanded to take in other areas such as Oshkosh and Green Bay. We would say that this decision should be made on the basis of which type of area provides the best subject matter for this kind of research, rather than on the basis of community pride or pressures. We can understand how some might want to restrict the study to the Fox Cities alone, for this would mean more concentrated examination of our particular problems. Yet it might be that in doing so we would be committing the old error of studying the past and present rather than the future; a quarter-century from now the interrelationship of all the urban communities stretching from Green Bay to Oshkosh (or perhaps even to Fond du Lac) may be as obvious as those which now exist within the Fox Cities community.

However such questions are eventually answered, the fact that this study is going to be undertaken here is good news for all of us who live in the Fox Valley. Along with the work of such organizations as the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission and the efforts of various municipal officials and civic leaders to better understand where we are going and how we are going to get there, it provides an opportunity for professional research and advice enjoyed by few communities of our size.

with it, traveled with it, cleaned it, cradled it — often it was his only passport to life.

For all its effectiveness, the M-1 was a simple thing. Men learned to take it apart and put it together blindfolded. It was not a complex weapon. And its lack of complexities helped it establish a rate of malfunction so microscopic as to be overlooked altogether. It could be rendered almost soggy by sea spray in a bucking landing craft and yet fire with deadly and unrelenting rapidity. It could take a dunking in slimy jungle mud and not misfire.

The U. S. Army has had other famous basic infantry weapons — the Springfield .03 among them. And now comes the M-14 which, it is said, will replace not only the M-1 but the M-2 carbine, the Browning automatic rifle and the M-3 sub-machine gun.

It is indeed well that our troops will be equipped with such a new and effective weapon. But for all its reputation the M-14 is but a "boot," a raw recruit, and must yet prove itself to be a worthy successor to the M-1.

Up to this point, at least, the M-1 must be regarded as the most famous basic infantry weapon of all time — if for no other reason than it was used with uncommon success by more men under more trying conditions than any other weapon of its kind.

We couldn't let the M-1 go without giving it the historic and traditional military accolade:

"Well done."

pornography called in Motion Picture Association President Eric Johnson and asked how come.

"You can read homosexuality into it or you can read incest, if you wish," said the bland Mr. Johnson, "if your mind goes along those channels. But I don't think there is anything like that in the picture ... It is a story of deep motherly affection ... an abnormality of mother love ..."

This is the harvest of foolish censorship — hypocrisy and nonsense.

State Conservation System Needs 'Housecleaning,' Say Sportsmen

Editor, Post-Crescent:

During the past several months sportsmen of Wisconsin have joined together in a united move to improve fishing and hunting and salvage what little "freedom" we have.

The state conservation department has been requested by petition to discontinue rough fish removal operations on Lake Winnebago. The governor has also had this demand given to him. The conservation department has been quoted in some news stories as saying commercial rough fish removal crews plus state crews have killed only four or five walleyed pike. We must ask if the two dead pike that Hugh Lavey picked up were included in the figure. If so we should congratulate the department for such a splendid job.

But at a public meeting in 1959 it was stated by some fishermen and admitted by the department that several nets found in the spring were full of dead game fish. These nets were unattended.

Perhaps it's time that all true sportsmen call a spade a spade and join together for the abolishment of the conservation commission and reorganization of all departments with the main office to be located somewhere in the central part of the state. The top jobs in conservation should be given to game wardens. Political appointment is not the right answer. Our present conservation commission and conservation department officials say they are doing what the sportsmen want. Spring is coming and it's high time sportsmen of the state did some "housecleaning" and put an end to the present conservation system.

Why did the people of Winnebago start a petition recently for the end of rough fish removal? The civic leaders of Winnebago at the last commission meeting stated that the area supports rough fish removal. Yet 90 per cent of the population of the village has signed against it.

We received a letter from the conservation department director asking us to contact him for a hearing on Feb. 12. We replied that due to the short notice we were unable to attend but would at the next meeting. A group of so-called civic leaders attended along with Dr. E. W. Schneberger, state fisheries chief. We were told only two commissioners would be there. He was not one of them.

We firmly believe it is time to request the governor

What Others are Saying

Citizens Should Support Politicians Before Election

From The Badger Farm Bureau News

Percy Hardiman, president of the Wisconsin farm bureau, has charged those who claim to be conservatives and get to work if they expect to elect conservatives to office next November.

"This means getting active at the local, precinct level in political education programs, backing your candidates, getting out the vote, and doing all the other work that goes with getting candidates elected," Hardiman said.

Like it or not, Hardiman puts this thumb right on the trouble area. One of the reasons Wisconsin conservatives lost heavily at the last major election was because of apathy — the apathy that whispered, "we already have a good name; why overwork."

It ought to be clear by now that before voters can expect to get support from politicians, they must extend a hand to help politicians.

For an office-seeker or an office-holder is only one person, who can't carry the ball alone.

Helping may mean donating work to the political party or it could mean sending only an occasional telegram or letter to a congressman or senator. But any support is better than none at all.

Only with sound citizen-backing, can politicians do a good job for the voters at home. It's wrong for conservative citizens to expect

Campaign Financing
Not Bugaboo It Seems

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — In quiet and confidential little meetings throughout Wisconsin and America these days talk is on practical problems of the oncoming political campaign. These problems usually are swept under the rug when it comes to public discussions.

In anxious consultations with their principal advisors and collaborators, candidates whose desires and hopes range from the White House to a seat in the state senate are asking:

Where can we get some money?

The problem of financing the organizations, the clutter and huckstering that is a part of each election is one of the least understood, least reported, and perhaps most hypocritically misrepresented aspect of American politics. It also is one of the most critical problems of politics to those who retain the pure democratic ideals absorbed in the schoolroom.

CASE HISTORY

Wisconsin probably affords a fair case history of campaign financing and its evolution to those who will regard it without blinkers.

The most tired partisan critics are those of the Democrats who allege that businessmen provide the campaign financing for Republicans, and those of the Republicans asserting that labor unions provide the money for the Democrats.

Both are right. But there should be no mystery about the fact. Somebody has to pay the bills, and the parties tend to take the money that is offered. Businessmen as a class are generally persuaded that the Republican party comes closer to their interests than any alternative on the ballot. Labor organizations in recent years have concluded, without actually making a formal alliance, that the Democratic party is their most practicable vehicle.

Nor should there be any special apprehension about their choices — whatever the private citizen may feel about the dependence of political parties as institutions upon economic groups as special interests. Both parties would accept financial gifts from other groups without to step into this matter to preserve fishing and hunting for the sportsmen.

Virgil A. Achterberg, President, Triple C Union of Sportsmen. (Citizens Conservation Committee)

The news service account was brief and unobtrusive enough: A Mrs. Arthur Miller of Brooklyn (no, not that Mrs. Arthur Miller) had found herself unable to nurse her 9-week old daughter, who could not adjust to artificial milk formulas. One donor was found, but when that supply was exhausted, the baby's physician was "unable to locate another donor in the New York area."

In desperation, the doctor made an emergency appeal to a milk bank at Evanston, Ill., and, at last report, everything was going well, with a steady supply being air-lifted across the 900 miles that separate Evanston and New York.

So far have we come. The newspaper reading public has grown accustomed to mercy flights involving shipments of exotic specifics (e. g., Hempstead county watermelon juice) for exotic ailments; we were aware, too, that Evanston, Ill., is the national headquarters for the WCTU, which ought to say something for the quality of its mother's milk, but the thought that a "milk bank" existed at Evanston or anywhere else came not only as a surprise but as something of a shock.

We never cease wondering how so many of the old-timers made it through in a period when the term "wet nurse" was still in the dictionary and "pediatrics" wasn't.

Verne Most Popular Author In Movieland

Producers Clamor For Rights of Dead Frenchman's Works

BY BOB THOMAS

Hollywood — Want to know the most popular author in the movies today? It's not Tennessee Williams or Grace Metalious, but a long-dead Frenchman, Jules Verne.

And no wonder. According to Variety's latest figures, Verne's "Around the World in 80 Days" has grossed $22 million in the United States and Canada alone. His "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" has accounted for $8 million domestically.

Currently, "Journey to the Center of the Earth" is a big money-maker for 20th Century-Fox, ending a box office drought for that company.

The Verne popularity is shown by the fact that four different producers have announced plans to film one of his books published variously as "The Castaways," "In Search of the Castaways" and "Captain Grant's Children."

Walt Disney claims victory.

Registered Titles

"We have registered all three titles with the Johnston office," he declared. "We also own the rights to world-wide release, having bought them from the Verne estate after four years of negotiation. The book is in public domain in this country, but it's protected abroad."

Disney's admiration for Verne goes back to his youthful days as a reader. As a producer, he had long sought the rights to "20,000 Leagues."

"It was hard work to plow through the Verne book again, because so much of it is tedious. I put paper clips on the parts that were exciting so I could refer to them immediately. That's how I broke down the script."

Great Imagination

The result was an adventurous film that brought Verne back into vogue. He had long been neglected by Hollywood, Disney said, because producers didn't know what to make of him—"the scripts always tried to introduce women into the story, which wasn't Verne's intent at all."

Modern events have also vindicated Verne's fantastic imagination. Such things as space travel and atomic submarines were made of. Even the "20,000 Leagues" for the U. S. Navy has seen fit to clues to help future developments, Disney said.

"The amazing thing is that Verne seldom ventured outside of Paris," Disney added. "He relied solely on his amazing imagination."

The network will do a nightly wrapup from 10:15 to 10:30 of highlights taped during the day's events. In addition, there will be lengthy telecasts of events Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

There is some other interesting viewing in store during the next seven days, but also some conflicts of specials.

Tonight, for instance, there will be a jam-up involving all three networks. NBC's Project 20 reprise of the period between 1945 and 1950 (7:30 to 8:30 p. m.) starts at the same time as ABC's 90-minute adaptation of A. J. Cronin's "The Citadel." CBS has an especially promising tale of foreign intrigue—"Thunder in the Night," scheduled from 8 to 9 p. m.

Other Highlights

"Requiem for Mary Jo," NBC's World Wide 60 show Saturday night (8:30 to 9:30) should be of special interest—the story surrounding the writing of a jazz liturgy for a Protestant church service.

Sunday brings an American Heritage show (NBC, 7 to 8) "Shadow of a Soldier," about the last days of President U. S. Grant.

Bob Hope pops up with one of his specials Monday (NBC, 7:30 to 8:30 p. m.) and on Tuesday there is the return of "Talent Scouts" for a 1-shot program (NBC, 7:30 to 8:30 p. m.)—but without Arthur Godfrey.

Playhouse 90 is the CBS special Wednesday evening (7 to 8:30) with "Cruel Day," a play about the Algerian conflict. At 9 p. m., there is another conflict. NBC has "Four For Tonight," with Beatrice Lillie, Cyril Ritchard, Tammy Grimes and Tony Randall starring in 15-minute solo turns. Still another 2-part show starts Thursday night; ABC's "The Untouchables," with a highly imaginative interpretation of the assassination of Mayor Anton Cermak.

'Teen Angel' Stays Top Tune for Fox Cities

Johnny Preston's Ballad About 'Running Bear' in Third Place

BY DICK DISC

Mark Dunning's "Teen Angel" continues to be the Fox Cities' top tune for the second week in a row. The slow moving ballad is the unanimous top choice again.

"Running Bear," the tune that was on top for several months, is back up to third place this week after being moved down to the sixth place position last week.

One new tune appears on the chart this week. It's Percy Faith's hauntingly beautiful "Theme From A Summer Place."

Here's the top 10:

1. "Teen Angel" by Mark Dunning.
  2. "He'll Have to Go" by Jim Reeves.
  3. "Running Bear" by Johnny Preston.
  4. "What In the World" by Jack Scott.
  5. "Handy Man" by Jimmy Jones.
  6. "Theme From A Summer Place" by Percy Faith.
  7. "Lonely Blue Boy" by Conway Twitty.
  8. "Pretty Blue Eyes" by Steve Lawrence.
  9. "Let It Be Me" by the Everly Brothers.
  10. "Beyond the Sea" by Bobby Darin.
- Top tune of the year five years according to Billboard, was "Mr. Sandman." Ten years ago "Johnson Rag" was a big one.

New Pop Tunes

"Alvin's Orchestra" by David Seville and his Chipmunk Friends. More raucous music is created through the madcap doings of Alvin. This time he has problems with a huge orchestra he has hired. The record is very cute and is interspersed with the hilarious shouting of Seville. More music for the children's hour.

"I Believe in Love" by Floyd Robinson. Catchy little ditty with a clever arrangement. It's Robinson's follow-up to "Makin' Love." Done in rock tempo with a strong guitar backing and Robinson's

American Revolution Made No Attack on Rights of Churches

BY HARRY GOLDEN

When the Bolsheviks got the revolution going in Russia, the two things they wanted to do was to borrow money from the banks and reform the laws concerning marriage and divorce. They "borrowed" the money by the simple expedient of blowing open the bank vaults with dynamite and they introduced the new marriage reforms by expropriating all of the church lands and forbidding any sort of religious teaching.

Now Fidel Castro, according to Cardinal Cushing, intends to expropriate the monies belonging to the Roman Catholic church in Cuba.

Confiscating church funds and property is the usual design of the revolutionary. Standard operating procedure in any revolution is the attempt to diminish the influence of the religious institution.

"Only in America"

The only revolution that treated its religious groups kindly was the American Revolution. And curiously, this was the most successful revolution of all history. Proof of this is its result — the American Revolution produced the United States of America.

The patriots who inspired the Revolution, who fought it, and who managed it were all intellectuals. They not only understood the relationship between people and religion, but they tried to maintain it.

America was a great experiment in political and religious freedom. Two major decisions were made about religious liberties which helped cement this purpose.

The Episcopal church in Virginia owned considerable property. It had acquired this property by royal grants from George II and George III. After the British had evacuated America, the State of Virginia proposed to confiscate this property.

Their reasoning was that the Revolution had declared invalid and had nullified all royal grants. But Virginia's claim did not stand up in the courts.

The supreme court ruled that the state could not expropriate these lands and property because in actual fact they belonged to the parishioners.

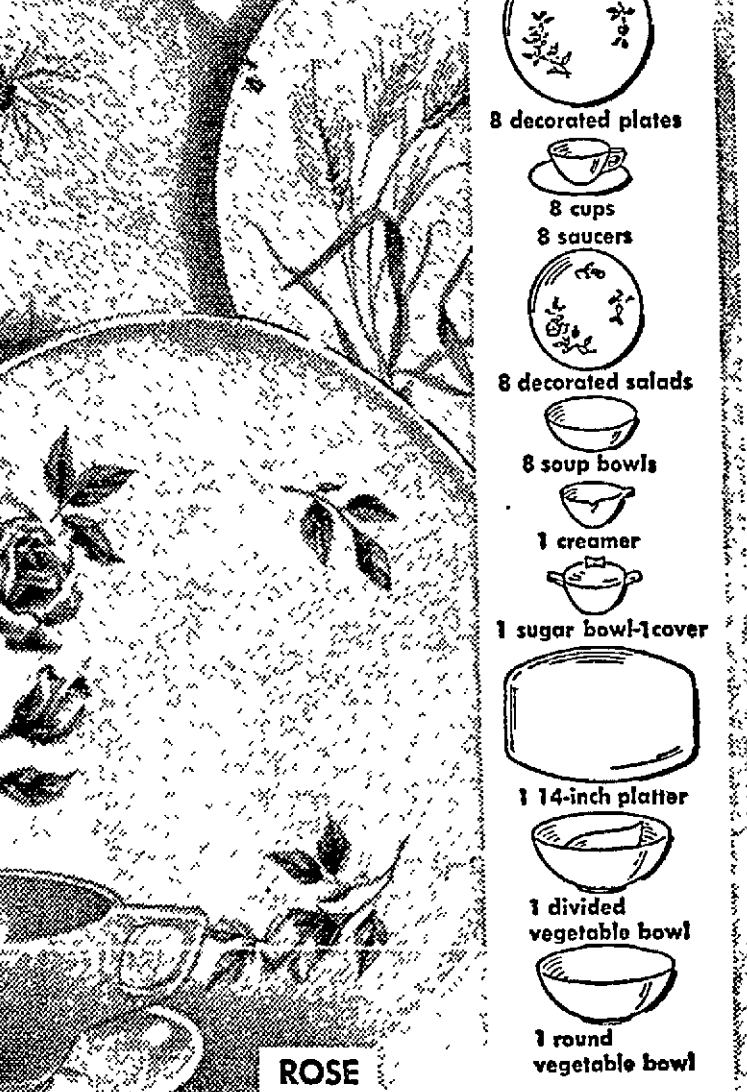

New York Case

Another decision resulted from an important case in New York. A bishop there dismised a parochial school teacher. The trustees of the church re-instated the brother. This action led to a law

Executives Asked To Find Waste In Administration

Madison — A group of Wisconsin business executives were urged Thursday to ferret out inefficiency in state government wherever they can find it.

Gov. Nelson told members of his newly-created committee on efficiency that many complaints about outmoded state practices are well founded. The executives, furnished by 15 major Wisconsin companies, met for the first time Wednesday.

The committee will study such state management functions as printing, building maintenance, data processing, accounting and budgeting. First agency to be studied is the department of administration.

The governor told the committee it should set its own work pace.

"It would seem, however," he told its members, "that if any of your recommendations will require legislative action they should be completed prior to Dec. 1 in order that bills might be prepared for the next session of the legislature."

Evil-Odored Bait Concoctions One Of Skillful Trappers' Secrets

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Wabeno — First you take one pound of ground putrifying venison, add a touch (one ounce) of the scent gland of a beaver. Chop well, and add one-half quart of beaver oil to serve as a base to hold the scent. Then go out and trap a fox or a brush wolf — if you're skillful.

That horrifying recipe is nectar to the nose of the critters of the woodlands — so says Elmer Gayhart, one of the last of the professional trappers. Sprinkle the wolf's version of Chanel No. 5 around a trap and the critter will come to investigate—and be trapped.

The Gayhart perfume is almost everlasting, so don't get it on your clothes, or your social status will drop remarkably. But it is not the only "bait perfume" used by wily woodsmen who are bounty hunters. The bounty on an adult brush wolf is $20. This recipe and, if effective, it is makes him a prize victim — more to be desired than a prime pelt of a beautiful beaver.

Other 'Perfumes'

Jim Harrison, acting postmaster of Wabeno, also is a trapper of long experience. He knows a variety of "perfumes" to entice brush wolves and foxes.

A chopped-up skunk, scent glands and all, is buried indefinitely to achieve a status of shocking "ripeness." Cats, too — the pussy variety as distinguished from the bobcats — are suitable for chopping and burying to make a lure. One trapper from a nearby community is a disciple of the cat school and says Harrison — there isn't a cat in his town. Furthermore, each time the cat specialist enters civilization, every dog for miles around becomes his lifelong friend.

Now and then well-aged fish is blended into the whole, as is minced muskrat and other things too untidy for inclusion here. Purpose for the grand effort, of course, is to make a lure to attract the critters to the traps.

Top Secret Recipes

The menus discussed here for the preparation of an effective lure does not complete the range possible. Every trapper has his own special

Senator Agrees To Remove Bad Michigan Lines

Washington—(AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) has agreed to remove derogatory references to Michigan from a report of Republican members of the senate rackets committee.

Sen. Philip A. Hart (D-Mich.) reported this to the senate Wednesday, and an aide of Goldwater said the senator had agreed that reference to Michigan as a "privileged sanctuary" for criminals was "far too general."

But the aide said "the facts behind the phrase will certainly remain in the report, however." The minority report said Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan had refused for four years to permit Wisconsin to extradite John Guana, an employee of the United Auto Workers wanted for assault in Wisconsin.

Goldwater's aide said he thought there would be no elimination of a statement that UAW President Walter Reuther runs Michigan to suit his own ends for personal prestige and union power. "There has been no discussion of changing that," the aide said.

Traps are Boiled

Elmer Gayhart boils his traps in a mysterious mixture of log chips which are treated in a manner equally mysterious, but he also is a devotee of soaking the traps in which he obtains from cheese factories.

Such treatments blacken or darken the traps, remove rust and the human odor.

Such intense and involved preparations take many hours, but they are necessary. Yet they are only a small phase of the remarkable skills and wisdom required of a successful trapper.

The writer snowshoed many miles for three days in the woods of the Nicolet National forest with some of the finest trappers hereabouts. The very real and very hard conditions encountered in elements of extremely difficult labor netted us one beaver—a young male weighing about 15 pounds whose pelt contained 49 inches of fur.

Pleads Guilty to Public Intoxication

To Your Good Health Ignorance Still Greatest Handicap in Fighting TB

By Joseph G. Molner, M. D.

Street is the biggest factor in spreading this disease, although I suspect that it must be a factor to some extent. After all, the sputum test is used to test for the disease; the germs are present in what the victim spits out, and the germs are what spread the disease. So I do not and cannot quarrel with you.

Spreads in Family

But the big way in which TB spreads is through a family. Somebody gets it. In a crowded, small household, you presently find several others with the disease. In crowded, poverty-stricken areas, the TB rate will be many times as great as in suburban parts of a city. The peril isn't basically wealth or poverty. The peril lies in the elements of ignorance, carelessness and crowding.

A few years ago in cities people threw garbage and waste into the street. Why? Ignorance. Today we spit germs into the streets. Why? Ignorance.

Ignorance is our foe, but with TB, much as we need to curb careless spraying of germs into the streets, we need even more to realize the danger of spreading it inside the home, by people who don't perhaps even suspect that they have it.

False Tale

"Dear Dr. Molner: I know that during pregnancy a woman cannot mark a child through sight, hearing or thinking. But what about the sense of smell?—Mrs. F. F."

No, not that way either. Remember this: Nature arranged things to protect the baby, in its formative stages, from being bothered or harmed by outside influences. Stop hunting for things to worry about, young woman!

Lung Cancer

NOTE TO E. A. C.: Lung cancer is much less prevalent among women than among men, but the reason is not yet understood. There is an increase in the disease among women, however.

Bed wetting can be conquered! To learn how, write to me in care of this newspaper requesting a copy of my booklet, "Enuresis—Ten Ways to stop Bed Wetting, and enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover handling.

Homemakers Baby Sitting Clinic Starts Saturday

Kaukauna — The first of a 2-session baby sitting clinic, sponsored by the Homemakers clubs, will get underway at the Kaukauna School of Vocational and Adult education with registration opening at 8:30 a.m. Saturday.

Over 100 seventh grade youngsters have indicated their intention to participate. This will be the fourth such clinic by Homemakers, the clubs having received a state project award three times for their efforts.

Children attending both sessions will receive a certificate and the Homemakers keep names on file to serve as references when inquiries are received about likely baby sitters. In past years both boys and girls have enrolled for sessions.

The first meeting will be divided into two sessions, the first being handled by Mrs. Joseph Simon, a registered nurse. She will demonstrate how to handle, feed, diaper and dress a small baby as well as discuss behaviorisms common to children from one through five years. Mrs. Eugene Longsine and Mrs. Donald Kettner will bring their babies to be used in the demonstrations.

The second session will be handled by Mrs. Marvin Schuler and Mrs. Eugene Vanden Heuvel. The two will conduct a workshop to teach future sitters how to make simple articles which can be used to keep small children amused.

Homemakers on the committee for arrangements include Mrs. Eugene Longsine, Mrs. Milton Teske, Mrs. Robert Rahn, Mrs. Robert Johnson, Mrs. Hollis Whitman, Mrs. C. H. Feller and Mrs. James DeGoe.

Agencies Learn How To Handle Radioactive Goods in Accidents

Madison—(AP)—Gov. Gaylord Nelson Wednesday mailed to state law enforcement agencies and local officers suggested procedures for dealing with truck and rail accidents involving radioactive materials.

The procedures are recommended by the Atomic Energy commission.

The governor said that despite present safety controls, accidents do happen.

"Most of the incidents to date have been quite minor," he said "such as damage of the outer container during minor vehicle accidents or freight car derailments."

Nelson noted that 100 state patrol cars are equipped with radio-active detection equipment and that the patrol's personnel is trained to assess radiation dangers and advise local law enforcement agencies.

Keep Perfect FVCC Mark Intact

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Little Chute — Menasha St. Mary kept its perfect basketball record in the Fox Valley Catholic conference intact here Thursday night with a 69-55 victory over St. John.

For the Zephyrs it was their ninth straight league triumph. Coach Ralph McClone's cagers had the conference title sewed up before the tilt. St. John has a 3-6 record in league play.

Take 11-0 Lead

After spotting the Zephyrs a 11-0 lead in the first period, the Chuters started a comeback on three different occasions, but the early margin told the difference.

Midway in the second period the Dutchmen closed the gap to 21-17, early in the fourth period they climbed to 50-42 and with two minutes left they had it at 59-51. But, on each occasion the Menasha-

Brault, Koprowski Have Spurred St. Norbert

Lawrence college's basketball team will face a currently-hot St. Norbert quint when it invades the Van Dyke gym in West De Pere tonight.

The Green Knights have won five of their last six games—their fortunes having been on the upswing since Ron Brault and John Koprowski (former Two Rivers prep stars) joined the team. Overall, St. Norbert has a 12-10 record.

Lawrence, which is 5-13 over-all, will be seeking its second road victory of the season.

Brault and Koprowski are averaging 19.4 and 11.6, respectively for the nine games they've played. Bill Feller, the school's new all-time scoring champ, is averaging 19.9 for 22 games. Rounding out the Knights' starting lineup are Dennis Burke and Menasha's Mike Wisneski.

Moving, Dignified Ceremonies Open Winter Olympics

Men's Downhill Race Postponed;
Hockey Action Starts Tonight

BY MURRAY ROSE
Squaw Valley, Calif. —(AP)—The Eighth Winter-Olympics get down to business today. The athletes take over and start gunning for the precious gold, silver and bronze medals.

And judging by the moving and dignified opening day ceremonies — which drew raves from almost everyone here from home and abroad—this still could be a magnificent show if the weatherman cooperates.

The prediction for competition was for partly cloudy weather with a high temperature of 40 in mid-day.

The Scandinavians were expected to dominate the first event, the men's 30-kilometer (18.64) miles cross country ski race.

Forty-eight long distance skiers were entered in the cross country at McKinney creek, 17 miles from here.

This, however, figured to be a battle among Finland's Veikko Hakulinen, the defending champion; Sixten Jernberg, Sweden's "king of the skis"; Norway's Hallgeir Brenden, and Kalevi Hämäläinen, another veteran Finnish ace.

The U.S., as usual, wasn't given a chance for a medal in this grind. Uncle Sam's entries include Leo Massa, Lake Placid, N.Y.; Mack Miller, Crested Butte, Colo.; Sven Johanson, Spenard, Alaska, and Joe Pete Wilson, Lake Placid, N.Y.

The spectacular Canadian team of Bob Paul and Barbara Wagner was the experts' pick in the pairs figure skating in the $3,500,000 Blyth Ice palace.

These were the only championships on tap following the postponement of the men's downhill race to Feb. 22 because of weather.

2 of 5 Appleton Rinks Win First Matches

Phenner Scores Extra-End Victory In 'Invitational'

Only two of the host club's five rinks survived opening night action in the Appleton Curling club's fifteenth annual invitational bonspiel.

Appleton's Lew Phenner (1958 champion) nipped Clintonville's F. H. Schafer, 10-9, in the only extra-end match. Appleton's Ed Murray beat Madison's Walter Rhodes, 9-8. Losing ACC rinks were skipped by Nick Engler, Don Kurey and C. M. Robertson. Chicago's Hoyt Thompson (1959 runnerup) beat Engler, 13-9; Waupaca's "Doc" Wickman stopped Kurey, 8-6; and Clintonville's Joe Petcka defeated Robertson, 12-6.

The three Appleton losers, as well as the five others, compete next in the second, or Sherry Motors, event. The winners move ahead in the first, or Granite, event.

In other Thursday night matches, Clintonville's S. H. Sanford beat Wauwatosa's K. A. Godfrey, 13-4; Clintonville's Cliff Mullarkey beat Green Bay's Carl Witte, 10-4; and Clintonville's Woody Smith, downed Green Bay's Lowell Larson, 10-4.

The bonspiel, which is open to the public, continues through Sunday afternoon. Visiting rinks—and there are 27 of them in a record, 32-team field—heaped praise on the hosts for the luxurious new facilities.

Fox Cities-Area Quints Open Sub-District Play Monday

A group of Fox Cities-area schools open sub-district tournament play Monday night as the lengthy machinery to determine the 1959-60 state high school basketball champion gets under way.

Teams from this area will compete in 6-team meets at Denmark, Marion and Wautoma, starting Monday, and in the 4-school Freedom sub-district beginning next Friday.

Just as was the case last year there are 48 sub-district tournaments on tap, all next following weekend (March 4 and 5). A total of 247 schools, nine fewer than last year and 18 fewer than the year before, are sub-district size. That is, their enrollments are 300 students, or less.

A total of 440 Wisconsin High schools, three fewer than in 1959, are competing in the tournaments, 193 in sub-regional action the week of Feb. 28. The 12 district and 20 regional meet survivors are assigned to eight sectionalals.

All 4-team sub-district meets must be played next Friday and Saturday with only five and 6-team tournaments eligible to play first games Monday.

Tournament managers are: Denmark, R. O. Miller, superintendent of schools; Marion, Lloyd F. Nell, superintendent; Wautoma, Mr. Howard Chase, superintendent; Freedom, H. W. Patch, principal. The Freedom Marion and Wautoma sub-district winners will participate in the Manawa district, along with the West field champ. The Denmark sub-district titlist plays in the Reedsville district along with sub-district kings from Brandon, Casco and Kohler.

The sectionalals will be played March 11 and 12 with the state finals slated for March 17, 18 and 19.

Badger '5' Seeks 2nd Straight Win

Welcomes Illinois Saturday;
Bucks Favored Over Spartans

Madison —(A)— The sample they had of victory Monday night tasted pretty good, and more of the same will be sought when Wisconsin's cagers take on Illinois here Saturday afternoon.

"Illinois is tough, but that victory over Iowa sort of picked us up and I'm sure our boys will give a good account of themselves," Badger Coach John Erickson said Thursday.

"We're pointed to win every one from now on in," he added.

When the Badgers tipped Iowa, 63-58, it was their first triumph in the Big 10 race. The first victory in nine starts served to elevate the team from the cellar, now occupied by Michigan, winless in nine tries.

Illinois has a 5-4 record. Because his squad is blessed with a number of good sophomores, working them together with an eye to the future has been one of Erickson's main objectives.

Burks Added
Addition of Frank Burks at the start of the second semester necessitated an adjustment to fit him into the pattern the team had been following since early in the season.

The Chicago sophomore has been a valuable addition, Erickson says he is set on four starters but won't decide the fifth until later.

Sure starters are sophomores Burks and Tom Hughes at forward, and seniors Fred Clow at center and Bob Barneson at guard. Either Marty Gharritty or Jack Ullwelling—both sophomores—will complete the starting lineup.

In other Big 10 action Saturday, unbeaten Ohio State is a 10-point favorite to defeat defending champion Michigan State on the Spartans' court; Minnesota plays host to Michigan in a regionally-televised game; Purdue is at Northwestern and Indiana visits Iowa.

Now declare open the Olympic games of the Squaw Valley celebrating the Eighth Winter Olympics.

Two former Olympic champions, Andica Mead Lawrence of Amado, Ariz., and Ken Henry of Chicago, and lovely Carol Heiss, the world figure skating queen from New York, starred in the most dramatic moments of the stirring spectacle.

Henry Gets Flag
Mrs. Lawrence, bare-headed and carrying the Olympic torch in her raised right hand, carefully skied down Little Papoose mountain to hand the flame to Henry. The former speed skating champion slowly circled the snow-covered outdoor skating rink, mounted the platform of the Tower of Nations, and formally ignited the Olympic flame. The flame will burn night and day until the games end Sunday, Feb. 28.

Miss Heiss, 20-year-old blond from Ozone Park, N.Y., and the choice to win an Olympic gold medal, recited the Olympic oath on behalf of all of the athletes. Carol was the first woman ever to have the honor of taking the oath.

The pageantry was directed by Hollywood's Walt Disney. Highlights included a choir of 2,645 voices, 1,285 instrumentalists from 52 California and Nevada high schools, the unaging of 2,000 Gresham used its second-grade, "Doves of Peace," string variety in the game, and the firing of cannon.

ans put together a rally to pull out in front by comfortable margins.

When St. John made it 21-17, the Zephyrs called a time out, gathered their forces and roared back with 13 straight points while holding the Chuters scoreless. This left the intermission score 34-17. St. John whittled a bit off the St. Mary lead by scoring 15 in the third period while the Zephyrs were held to 12.

Early in the last quarter, the Chuters put together 10 points while holding the Zephyrs to a lone bucket. This made it 50-42 and the capacity crowd was on its feet.

Then came a 7-point St. Mary rally that boosted the count to 57-42. Undaunted, the Chuters fought back to cut in to the lead. Roy Vandenberg hit a pair of field goals and Mike Bongers dropped two long ones and a free throw for the Dutchmen. Dean Schreiner added a pair of free throws in between for the Zephyrs to make it 59-51 with 2 minutes left.

Two more free throws by Schreiner and a bucket by Jim Koerner made it 63-51 for the Zephyrs. Tom Verhagen dropped a bucket for the Chuters but Pete Vanderhyden drilled one for St. Mary's and Koerner added two free throws to boost the winners to a 67-53 margin with 35 seconds left.

Free throw accuracy paid off for the Zephyrs as they hit 19 of 25 shots. On the other hand, the Chuters were having trouble on the charity stripe getting only 19 for 31.

Low Shooting Rates
Both teams had trouble finding the range in field goals, since 1950 in the professional. The Zephyrs shot an unofficial 32 per cent while St. John had 12 knockouts.

Joe Zeegers clubbed a 571 for Brandt's Bar in the Tap a Keg wheel at the Barn Tavern. His team trails first place Barn (38-24) by one game. Bob Burmeister shot a 553.

Lee Avery's 561 for Fitz and Treiber led the Craftsman's wheel at the Elks club. Clark

Johnson 'Doubtful';
Russia, Canada
Are Co-Favorites

Squaw Valley, Calif. —(A)— "We're planning on winning six straight games and a gold medal," said Coach Jack Riley of the United States hockey team today.

Riley who also coaches the U.S. Military academy team at West Point, admits his scrappy Yanks have their work cut out for them.

The Canadians and the Russians, gold medal winner at the 1956 games, are rated the teams to beat in the tourney at the Winter Olympic games.

The American team isn't exactly bursting with health. Several players are nursing injuries.

Paul Johnson (former Green Bay Bobcat) and Roger Christian, high scorers during the pre-olympic wars, are on the doubtful list. Johnson has an injured hip and Christian is bothered with a bad knee.

And Larry Palmer, the handsome West Pointer who shares the goalie duties with Jack McCartan, injured a knee during a practice scrimmage Tuesday.

ing forward to his fourth season of pro umpiring, though he doesn't have a contract as yet. He hopes either to obtain a spot in the Sally league or to return to the 3-1. Rennert will have spring training, just as players do. He will work exhibition games at the White Sox' minor league base in Florida. Last spring, he worked at Thomasville, Ga.—the Baltimore minor league camp — and says he was much impressed by the Oriole organization. "Dutch" calls Fox Cities Manager Earl Weaver a "fireball," and a pilot fans will like. Rennert hopes slugger Dave Nicholson will be sent here, because he would be quite a gate attraction. The umpire said he's seen Nicholson hit the ball out of the lot on only a half-swing. Nicholson still has a curve-ball weakness, says Rennert, and because of it may not be ready for triple A Miami (Baltimore's only higher farm club than Fox Cities).

How's this for consistency? Southpaw swinging Gus Bell, of Cincinnati, hit .293 against both right-handed and left-handed pitching in 1959.

The Packers' Vince Lombardi put his 1960 seal of approval on his top two quarterbacks — Lamar McHan and Bart Starr—the other day when he nixed Washington efforts to land one of them. The Redskins, anxious to fill the void created by Eddie LaBaron's retirement, were reported ready to part with such running backs as Don Bosseler and Jim Podoley in a deal for Starr or McHan.

The 1959-60 Cardinals are the first Fond du Lac basketball team in 10 years to win as many as seven conference games.

Sheboygan will field its first American Legion Junior baseball team this summer. It's possible the Legion circuit will get a berth in the states strongest league entrant—the Fox River Valley Legion league—but only if there is expansion or if a present member drops out. Among other teams reportedly interested in joining the "Fox" circuit are Seymour and Manawa.

Bob Roemer, All-around Appleton High athlete for three seasons prior to 1959-60, has been awarded a freshman cross country numeral at the Air Force academy.

Johnny Pesky, former Boston Red Sox shortstop, rates Jack Wood and Oshkosh pitcher Howie Koplitz as future big league timber. Both played for Pesky at Knoxville in the Class A Sally league last year. Wood, a look-alike for Henry Aaron, played a lot of baseball for the Fox Cities Foxes before being recalled by Detroit and sent to Knoxville. He hit .300 in 56

Bobcats Play Rochester and Des Moines

Green Bay — Green Bay's Bobcats newly-crowned champions of the Central Hockey league, close out their league schedule here this weekend against two opponents, without Player - Coach Johnny Maysich.

The Bobcats, who clinched the Central title Saturday night with a 3-1 victory at Rochester to end the Mustangs' 5-year reign, face the dethroned Mustangs at the Brown County arena Saturday night, then entertain the Des Moines Ice Hawks Sunday afternoon.

Possessed of a 19-3 record in CHL competition and 28-5 overall, the Bobcats will be making their first appearance of the season without Maysich in Saturday night's match. Six of the league's top 10 scorers, three from each team, will be matched in Saturday night's game.

Dick Dougherty, acting coach in the absence of Player-Coach Johnny Maysich, leads the league with 72 points in 22 games.

The Bobcats' also boast Dick Dier, running sixth with 33 points, and Pete Buchmann, now tenth with 31. Three other Bobcats rank among the leaders but two of them, Maysich and Paul Johnson, are with the Olympic team, and Gerry Martilla is injured.

Player - Coach Ken Johannson will spearhead Rochester's invasion. Johannson is second with 62 points and the league's leading goal-scorer with 35.

The Mustangs' Don Brosolt, league champion a year ago, is fifth with 39 points; and Arley Carlson, veteran 36-year - old center who missed the first month of the season, is ninth with 32.

Vike, Ripon Matmen Give Preview of MC Meet Saturday

Though Lawrence and Ripon colleges have finished their 1959-60 basketball series, they haven't concluded their athletic rivalry for the winter season by any means.

At 2 p.m. Saturday in the Alexander gym, the state rivals will take to the mat to settle their differences. The Bernie Heseltun-coached Vikes—the school's best wrestling team in years—will go all-out to avenge an earlier loss (21-15) to the Rodmen.

The dual match, which will feature several of the Midwest conference's top individuals, will accord area fans a preview of the big MC meet scheduled here March 4-5. This will be Lawrence's final home appearance until that time.

Fast and powerful Bob Smith, conference heavyweight champ, will head the Lawrence forces. Two top-notch Vike sophomores, Jim Eastman and Dick Kauffman, will also try to repeat earlier wins over their Ripon opponents.

Lawrence's Scott Adam, who lost at 130 pounds to Ripon's Fred Haberland in December, has been unbeaten at 123 pounds since that match.

The Vikes have a 3-2 record for dual meets, losing to Ripon and to Monmouth (18-16).

Richmond, Calif. — Fernando Sota, 122, Portugal, out-panted Benny Casing, 122, Stockton, Calif., 10.

Basketball hasn't changed in it," says Seims, who much in the last half-dozen coached in DeWight, Ill., and years, according to Forrest at Hudson before coming to "Frosty" Sprowl and Myron Appleton. Timing games is no Seims, who have been away substitute for being on the from coaching about that bench, he asserts. Myron has one child, a married daughter.

Sprowl, now regional sales manager for Appleton's Fox River Paper company, was of Lawrence college's head cage MC is about the same as it skipper from 1951-53. Seims, was in the early 1950s, though industrial arts instructor at the "power in the league has Appleton High school, piloted Terror quintets from 1939-53.

Seims, whose Appleton teams won Fox River Valley conference championships in six of the nine seasons from 1945-53, is still connected with the game in an official capacity. He's the timer for all varsity contests played in the Terror gym.

Sprowl, whose four Lawrence teams all were around the 500 won-loss mark, or better, has been just a spectator since he packed away his whistle and clipboard in '55. But he's one of Lawrence's most loyal rooters, attending every football and basketball contest that his business schedule allows.

About one-third of the time, the former all-Big Ten forward (at Purdue) is on the road, working the area east of the Mississippi.

"I wouldn't change my system at all if I were coaching now," says Seims. "The game and the rules aren't that much different. I stressed defense and rebounding and still would," asserts the man, whose zone defense was the scourge of the valley for years.

"The big difference that does exist," Seims continues, "is that more teams are fast-breaking, and doing more of it, then 10 years ago. I was stopping them from running and I'd still try to do that."

Seims thinks the finest team he ever had at AHS was the 1947-8 club of Jim Hammond, Bob Brandt, Myron Locklin, Jack Pribrnow and Co.

"We lost just two games and gave state champion Wauwatosa a good polishing." That AHS club won 13 straight games, and with the nine in a row won by the 1946-7 outfit, still owns the longest winning streak in FRVC history.

Castro Asks U.S. to Stop Plane Raids

Kelly and said he was a member of the U. S. Civil Air Patrol.

(In Miami, Robert Frost of Portland, Ore., was reported overdue on a "presumably local flight" in a light plane bearing the same registry number as the one which crashed in Cuba.

(CAP headquarters in Houston, Texas said its records listed two Robert Kellys as members, but the families of both men said they were in the United States and were not connected in any way with the Cuban incident.)

After the crash, the U. S. embassy quickly offered a team of technicians to assist in an investigation. Castro accepted the offer.

Castro said an investigation indicated the premature explosion of a fragmentation bomb intended for the mill blew up the plane. He said eyewitnesses reported the plane was diving on the mill when it blew apart, sending one of the fliers hurtling through the roof of a nearby house and shattering the body of the other beyond recognition.

2 Florida Bases He said the eyewitnesses reported seeing one of the men holding out a heavy object in his hand as the plane began its dive.

The prime minister said a flight map recovered from the wreckage showed the plane had two Florida bases, one 30 miles southwest of a strategic air command (SAC) base at Homestead, the other 79 miles northwest of the Key West navy base.

Castro also said that some 30 raids this year had resulted in the loss of about 225,000 tons of sugar cane.

"This is the only country in the world being victimized by such attacks," he declared.

Castro hailed as the "most beneficial agreement ever in the nation's history" the big trade and credit pact signed by himself and Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan last Saturday.

Sees Gains in Accord

Under the agreement, the Soviet Union will buy five million tons of Cuban sugar in the next five years at world market prices. It also will provide Castro's regime credit equivalent to $100 million, repayable over 12 years at 2 1/2 per cent interest.

Castro boasted that Cuba would gain a "$70 million favorable trade balance" during the pact's 5-year duration.

"I wish we had 100 agreements like it," he declared. "If we had the same kind of pact with the United States, all our problems would be solved."

Castro surprisingly did not comment on Soc. of State Christian A. Herter's statement in Washington Wednesday that consideration is being given to cancellation of the system under which the United States pays premium prices for Cuban sugar. The Soviet-Cuban treaty has aroused concern in Washington, and some congressmen have suggested that the sugar bounty be dropped.

Castro said part of the Soviet credit would pay for heavy industrial equipment from the Soviet Union. He listed among tentative projects the construction of a steel plant to produce 500,000 tons a year. Cuba has sizeable iron ore deposits, but steel men here say no way has been devised — despite several attempts — to separate the high chrome content.

Castro also suggested that Cuba might swap sugar for Soviet ships to build up its merchant fleet.

the imminent birth of royal babies.

Sometimes—as in the case of Princess Anne Aug. 15, 1950—this announcement has followed the actual birth. On that occasion, the "in attendance" announcement was issued at 11:22 a.m. Anne had in fact been born 32 minutes before, at 10:50 a.m.

The explanation: The palace observed the protocol of notifying official London representatives of all 10 British commonwealth nations before making the birth public.

But this time the birth came 1 hour and 15 minutes after word that the delivery was underway.

The Crumpled Wreckage of a plane in which two men died lies before the front door of a Paterson, N. J. home where the twin-engine craft crashed Thursday night during a snowstorm. The victims were the owner and pilot, Frank Miller, 48, of Larchmont, N. Y. and Louis S. Eslinger, Ozone Park, N. Y. The home-owner, Atty. William Cutler, was inside his house with his two children but they were uninjured. Police said the plane was bound from nearby Teterboro airport for Westchester county, N. Y., airport.

60-Day Stay For Chessman

its decision — whatever that decision may be."

Chessman, the most notorious American prisoner of modern times, had excited world-wide attention by his long struggle to escape death through legal technicalities.

With little knowledge of the basic evidence, hundreds of thousands of persons in scores of countries had demonstrated and petitioned that Chessman be spared.

Ironically, the state department telegram which saved him was almost lost in the thousands of telegrams pouring into the governor's office, urging clemency.

Stay Ordered Cecil Poole, the governor's clemency secretary, happened to open it, and the stay was ordered shortly after midnight.

Chessman, scheduled to enter the gas chamber at 10 a. m., was whisked out of the "waiting room" cell next to the green-painted gas chamber and returned to the death row cell on San Quentin's sixth floor — the cell which has been his home since July 3, 1948.

He had no comment, and Warden Fred R. Dickson announced that no one would be allowed to see the 38-year-old convict "for at least a week."

Only two hours before, Chessman had bade goodbye to George T. Davis, his chief counsel, with the words, "George, you're shaking hands with a dead man."

Gov. Brown declined any oral comment but issued through his secretaries an announcement of the stay, in which he quoted the following telegram from Roy R. Rubottom, Jr., assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs:

"Through our embassy in Montevideo, the national council of the government of Uruguay has tonight (Thursday) brought to urgent attention of state department grave concern of council over anticipated hostile demonstrations of student elements and others to Chessman execution when our president visits Uruguay March 2."

In Washington, Rubottom said he sent the telegram after conferring "with my superiors" and, "there were other expressions of concern about the case, I think from Brazil."

The reprieve was welcomed in Europe. Newspapers which had vigorously opposed his execution after nearly 12 years in a California prison death row expressed renewed faith in American justice and urged that Chessman should now be spared permanently.

The news was rushed on to front pages of Europe's afternoon papers. One London paper gave Chessman precedence over Queen Elizabeth's expected baby.

In France, where newspapers of all political shades had condemned the execution, the reprieve took top place in radio newscasts. France Soir, the first Paris paper to appear after the announcement, bannered the story.

Democratic Hopeful to Speak at Party Caucus in Madison Tonight

By The Associated Press

Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) returns to Wisconsin tonight to help his supporters name candidates pledged to him in the state's presidential primary April 5.

The Minnesota senator who will be opposed by Sen. John Kennedy (D-Mass) in the early Wisconsin primary, is scheduled to speak at a Second District caucus at Madison tonight at which five candidates pledged to him will be named.

Humphrey also plans to speak this weekend at other district meetings at which other delegates will be named. There will be five delegates named from each congressional district, 10 delegates named at large and two by national committee members. Each delegate will have one-half vote.

Similar Slates

Similar slates of candidates pledged to Kennedy will be named at other meetings.

Both Kennedy and Humphrey will speak at Racine. Humphrey will deliver the keynote address to the opening session March 18 and Kennedy will be the principal banquet speaker March 19.

Meanwhile, Philip C. Kuehn, of Milwaukee and Jack Olson of Wisconsin Dells, candidates for the Republican nomination for governor and Gov. Gaylord Nelson, who is expected to seek reelection as a Democrat, continued to stump the state.

No Sales Tax Nelson, in a news conference at Madison Thursday afternoon, said he agreed with Sen. Kennedy that a ceiling should be placed on expenditures in the Wisconsin primary.

Kuehn, in a Racine address Thursday night, said that he would not accept a sales tax "as merely another tax on top of already existing taxes."

Speaking at a Lincoln day dinner, Kuehn said that he favored sales tax legislation only as a replacement for "substantially reduced" property taxes.

Clarified Stand Kuehn said he was clarifying his sales tax stand, taken a week ago at a River Falls State college political conference.

Some type of tax revision, he concluded, has to be carried out to insure industrial growth and increased job opportunities.

Olson, speaking in Marinette Thursday night, blamed Nelson's administration for an Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co. strike.

strongly championed, hurriedly scrapped headlines foretelling his doom and proclaimed his new lease of life in large type.

The news also was splashed in Austria where editorial writers have denounced the prolonged case as "a discredit to America."

ing company expansion project in Harvey, Ill.

"It is a deplorable situation," he said at a Republican rally, "when our state loses such a huge expansion project by one of our top manufacturers."

"We apparently can not get Wisconsin corporations to expand in Wisconsin and we can not get new corporations to come to Wisconsin unless we rectify our tax laws, particularly as they apply to real and personal property."

"The Democrats promised relief but it never came," he said.

Secrecy Peril Faces Press

Past AP Chief Makes Remark at Fraternity Meeting

Milwaukee — The past president of the Associated Press Managing Editors association, declared Thursday night that the greatest peril facing the American free press today is the growing secret government.

V. M. Newton, Jr., managing editor of the Tampa, Fla., Tribune, said that "the arrogant politician of 1960 and particularly our public servant in Washington, has shut us out of legitimate information of the American government."

Newton, national president of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity, addressed the local chapter of the organization.

"The press has fought mightily from the lonely community school board to the White House itself against this secret government," he said.

"We have attained some success in our state legislatures and in our federal congress in getting laws guaranteeing the American people their rightful information of government. Yet our fight really has just begun, because free America is rapidly moving into the dangerous area of bureaucratic control of every phase of human life, including human thinking."

Teenager Sentenced For Killing Parents

Berlin — A West Berlin teenage boy today got 10 years in prison for killing his parents by poison.

It was the maximum penalty under German law which the court could give Manfred Buchholz, 18.

The good-looking, blond boy told the court he put poison in the tea of his mother and stepfather last April.

Buchholz said he killed his mother because "she made life for me unbearable." He added his father had to die for always bowing to the will of his wife.

Your Problems

Swinging Prince in Shining Armour Should be Given Air

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Right now I'm nursing a black eye and I can't see well enough to try out for the senior class play. In fact, I'm having trouble typing this letter. My boy friend hit me.

He's really a swell kid Ann Landers when he controls his temper. We got into a silly argument and he flew off the handle.

My parents saw me this morning and I said I bumped into a door. If my dad knew the truth he'd kill the boy. He never did like him much.

I admit my feelings aren't quite the same but I'm afraid I'd be lonely without him. He begged for another chance and promised he'd never hit me again. I think I should tell you that he hit me once before but not in the eye. Should I give him just one more chance?—Not Seeing Clearly

DEAR NOT SEEING: Even with one eye you should be able to see the stripe of this skunk. Don't give him a third chance to knock you cold. Give him the air.

Be grateful for a preview of what he's really like. Some girls fancy themselves in love after a few dates and actually marry fellows they hardly know. It's later that they learn the prince in shining armor has a dandy left hook.

DEAR ANN: My husband owns a small business where every penny counts. He's going on a convention trip and taking his secretary along as she knows a great deal more about the business than he does. (He inherited her from the former owner.)

Last night he asked if I'd mind if they traveled as Mr.

and Mrs. to save money on the airline family plan.

There is nothing going on between these two. It's strictly business. Just tell me if you think it would be all right to use this money-saving device.—Practical Aggie

DEAR AGGIE: How practical can you get? Tell your husband to let Miss Whatchamacallit use her own name and not try to take the airline for a few bucks by employing this shoddy device. Let him know your name means too much to lend it out so casually.

DEAR ANN: My mother died in April. Her dying wish was that we take my brother Roy into our home. My wife was present and gave me the go signal, so I made the promise.

Roy is 22 and was always a problem. He quit school at 17 and ran off with a magazine crew. When he came home the army took him. We hoped that would straighten him out but it didn't.

He has a job in a machine shop now and makes good money but he spends everything on girls. He's supposed to pay us $15 a week for board and room but he hasn't paid anything since September.

He criticizes my wife's cooking and ironing. He's mean to our two sons. My wife has become so furious with him that she's gone to bed with a sick headache. I'd like to kick him out but my mother's memory haunts me. What shall I do?—Disturbed

DEAR DISTURBED: The Bible says you are your brother's keeper, but it doesn't say you should keep your brother in your home and allow him to destroy your marriage.

You fulfilled your obligation to your mother when you took Roy in to live with you. He made the arrangement unworkable because of his impossible behavior. Throw the bum out.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Too Serious Card Player Spoils Club

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell us how to cope with a member of our bridge club who loses her temper when her partner makes a mistake? This person is a very serious player and will hold the bidding up a long time while she studies her hand. We have a club which is many years old and we are all fairly good players, but we all make mistakes occasionally. This is one of our newer members and we have never had anyone act this way before. She is ruining an afternoon which has always been such fun.

Answer: I suggest that you delegate whoever it was that invited her to join your club, to explain to her that she is taking the game much too seriously and is spoiling the pleasure of the other players by doing so.

Cooperative Gift

Dear Mrs. Post: My mother does not live with us but she does live in town. We've all three been invited (separate invitations) to a wedding and wondered if mother could send a present with my husband and me? How should we write the card?

Answer: No reason why especially if this would mean your sending a particularly nice present. Enclose both visiting cards or write on a plain card: "Best wishes from Mrs. John Elder and Mr. and Mrs. David Younger." Or, "Best wishes from Aunt Mary, Alice and David."

Elbows On Table

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it good manners to put one's elbows on the table?

Answer: It depends very much upon the where. The most usual place, and also the most excusable, is when two people are lunching or dining on either side of a narrow restaurant table. It is much easier to talk between courses leaning partly on the table, and in this case on an elbow. Otherwise there is small excuse.

Mrs. Post offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would like to have her leaflet, E-22, entitled, "Names and Signatures," send 10 cents in coin to Dept. E. P., care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N.Y.

Little Women's Circle Honors Mrs. Karl Schuetter

Mrs. Karl Schuetter has resigned as adviser to the Little Women's circle of the King's Daughters after 20 years in the post. The group's new adviser is Mrs. M. J. Schulenburg.

Two circle members, Betty Saiberlich and Nancy Wink, composed a poem in honor of Mrs. Schuetter, outlining her years as adviser.

The group has planned a St. Patrick Day party March 17 for the orthopedic classes at Morgan school under the direction of Nancy Wink.

Serving Hint

Weight-watchers take notice: Cut a baked potato in half and scoop out the insides. Put the potato through a ricer and mash with salt, pepper and hot milk until fluffy. Spoon the mashed potato back into the shells and sprinkle with paprika. Reheat in the oven or under the broiler. Garnish with a parsley sprig. Chances are that you won't miss the calorie-rich butter usually lavished on baked potatoes.

Two Brothers Have Different Reactions to Violent Comics

BY ANGELO PATRI

"We have two boys aged 8 and 10. The 10-year-old loves comics. The bloodier the better. He laughs at the foolishness of them and they seem to do him no harm. Just give him an amusing quarter hour. But the 8-year-old is different.

"This boy is very bright, quick, sensitive, more so than his brother, who, while doing very well in school, gets an occasional B on his card. The younger one insists on looking at the comics and then has terrible nightmares. Even while he is awake and looking at them he is shivering.

"Shall I throw out the comics or what?"

If the comics are tossed out the older boy will not understand why he should be deprived of something that amused him and did him no harm just because his little brother was "silly, a 'fraidy cat, a sissy," and that situation would be good for neither. Let the sturdy-minded youngster have his comics and let him laugh at them. Just see that the younger one has a book that amuses him, while his brother enjoys his own.

To Each His Own

If the younger one still insists on looking at what distresses him why not insist in your turn that he does not such thing but takes his own book. That might teach him that his brother has tastes, habits, enjoyments that he does not have and cannot have.

It is good for children, and all the rest of us, to accept the fact that we cannot have everything others have, cannot enjoy everything others seem to delight in, cannot live in another's skin but must forever abide as happily as we can in our own.

Life offers a rich variety of enjoyment so each may have his own. When two or more can enjoy the same thing that is wonderful because sharing fun increases it just as sharing anything increases its abundance, spiritual values making the least seem the most always.

Trying to level people in any way will not work because nothing men can do can alter fundamental laws and the differences that make one man, one child powerful in a marked degree are unalterable, because fundamental.

Angelo Patri offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning child training. If you would like to have his leaflet P-5, "Trouble With Number Tables," send 10 cents in coin to him, care of this paper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N.Y.

Anne Baxter Honeymoons In Honolulu

Honolulu — — — Actress Anne Baxter, now the bride of Randolph Galt, an American cattle rancher, plans to spend her honeymoon on a ranch he owns near Sidney, Australia.

They were married here Thursday in a simple ceremony in Honolulu's St. Andrew Episcopal chapel. The public was barred and only nine members of the immediate families attended.

Miss Baxter, now 37, former wife of the late actor, John Hodiak, was attended by her 8-year-old daughter, Katrina, as flower girl. Mrs. William Aull, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor.

It was Galt's first marriage.

Miss Baxter has said that she intends to continue her motion picture career.

Woman Dentist Thinks Each Patient a Challenge

Louisville, Ky. — — — A man looking for a dentist happened to walk past the office of Dr. Marian P. Singleton.

He stepped inside, chatted with an amiable woman he took to be a receptionist and sat in a dental chair. In a few seconds the "receptionist" was checking his teeth.

"You know, that man looked surprised even with his mouth already open," Dr. Singleton says. "But now he's one of my regular patients."

For 19 years Dr. Singleton has been a practicing dentist. There are little more than a thousand women in the same field throughout the nation—whereas in Russia, for instance, 80 per cent of all dentists are women.

And the small percentage of women dentists in the United States is decreasing.

"I can understand why," Dr. Singleton says. "Young women are marrying earlier—and how many can afford the $10,000 or more for a dental education?"

The case of Dr. Singleton, 45, is somewhat different, and her advice to would-be women dentists springs from her experience.

"Stay unmarried unless romance interferes with learning dentistry," she says. "If so, it's more important than a career anyway."

Dr. Singleton remained single until she became a dentist. Then it was easy to find a husband—Dr. Harry Gilmore—243 West 17th St., New York 11, from among the many dentists she met. They share an office as well as a home.

"He's very cooperative,"

she says. "When I can't keep an appointment he takes my patients."

Dr. Singleton also advises girls to spend some time in several dental offices to get the feel of a dentist-patient relationship and to find out if you're really suited for that work."

As a teen-ager she worked for years in her late father's dental office.

The financial reward for women dentists is sizeable—an average $11,000 a year.

The intangible reward to Mrs. Singleton: "You're doing something more with hands than knitting—there's a feeling of accomplishment and immediate results."

Mrs. Singleton agrees with members of the profession who want the woman dentist to get a little glory—like the banker.

"You think teeth are just teeth," she says. "But each cavity is different. Each patient is a challenge."

Children's Eating Habits Present Bitter Problem

By Dorothy V. Whipple, M.D.

Supper time had been an especially bitter battle.

Tom wouldn't eat his carrots. Lola dawdled over her milk and Marie insisted she couldn't chew the meat. Mother had made a beautiful lemon meringue pie for dessert, but none of the children got a bite of it because of the long-established rule that they must finish their plates before they could have dessert. Neither Dad nor Mother could enjoy pie in the presence of three varieties of tantrum.

Eventually the Anderson household quieted down and two fagged out parents met each other in the living room.

"Peg," said Harry, "this awful rowing about what the kids eat has got to stop. Why don't you just let them eat anything they want?"

"But they have to be properly nourished."

"Yes, I know, but I read about an experiment where kids were allowed to choose their own diets and they all came out all right."

"But you know they would all have eaten pie and not much else tonight, if we'd let them."

"O.K., it was good pie."

Would it work? I'm afraid the answer is no.

The experiment Harry quoted did show that children could and would select good diets for themselves but there were some things about that experiment that Harry didn't know.

The experiment was done by Dr. Clara Davis in an orthopedic hospital. A whole ward of youngsters who were essentially healthy children but had to be in the hospital for long times because of broken bones and similar ailments, were given the opportunity to choose anything they wanted to eat from huge carts of food wheeled into the ward.

Careful records were kept and over a period of a week each child ate all the essential food substances he needed. Some of the daily diets, however, were certainly peculiar. One little fellow ate bananas in a day and little else. Another child ate nothing but eggs for several days. The experiment showed that children even ate things they didn't like when their bodies needed them. A child put his finger into the salt, licked the salt off, made a wry face, shuddered at the taste, then went back for more!

Now comes the hitch in applying the results of the experiment to an ordinary home. On the food cart there were no foods except what we call natural foods. Everything was served as it grew in nature—cooked where cooking was essential, but no foods were refined, nothing was added to them, nothing edible was taken away. That means there were meats, fruits, vegetables, eggs, milk, whole grain cereals. There was not any white sugar or cakes or cookies or pastries or jellies or jam made with refined sugar or refined white flour. There was molasses and honey for sweets.

Nobody gives a course in nutrition to wild animals and yet they manage to eat what they need. The same is more or less true of man in primitive societies.

Change Foods

But in our society we have learned to do all sorts of things to foods. We make foods which we think taste and look better than the natural ones. Some foods we change so they will keep better and we can transport and store them more easily.

In "improving" our foods we have also destroyed some of their nutritive value. Whole grain eaten as is, or ground into cereal or flour is a nutritious food. But pure white wheat flour has had removed from it the germ of the wheat and the outside covering of the grain. Most of the vitamins and minerals of the original grain have been removed. When we "educate" our taste to prefer refined wheat flour to the whole ground grain then we have altered our natural instincts and must learn from nutrition experts what to eat along with our white bread to make up for what we have removed from the original grain.

As soon as a child (or adult for that matter) has eaten all the calories he needs he is no longer hungry and we say his appetite has been satisfied.

Refined Foods

If his calories had been supplied by natural food substances he would have received along with his calories the vitamins, minerals, protein present in the original food, but if his calories have been supplied from refined foods it is quite likely he has not had the necessary amounts of accessory foods.

You cannot let children fill up on lemon meringue pie. But then we really knew that in the first place by common sense.

If you're having trouble with your children, try giving them only natural foods. Give them milk, eggs, butter, whole milk, cheese, all fruits, all vegetables, all meats.

Woman Pacifist Defies Taxes

Chicago — — — A woman pacifist who refuses to eat or discuss her back income taxes today starts a year and a day jail sentence for her defiance.

Miss Eroseanna Robinson, 35, has been in jail since Jan. 26 for refusing to comply with a federal order to file her back income tax returns.

She claimed she had fasted in jail until being transferred to a hospital five days ago and forced fed through a tube.

Toddlers Need Exercise To Strengthen Muscles

At about one year, your baby will master his legs and make the marvelous discovery that they will take him places. Then he wants to walk. He is likely to drop all previous activity.

He wants to walk, walk, walk. He still needs your finger to hang onto before he will venture into the open spaces of the center of the room. A baby can wear you out with his demands for your supporting finger. But walking is very good for him. Not only is he practicing how one foot goes in front of the other foot, but he is exercising all the muscles used to keep his body erect and move it about.

Finally the day comes when your baby becomes a true toddler and can go off on his own. For a while he will still like to walk just for walking's sake, but eventually he masters the art sufficiently so that the pure joy of putting one foot in front of the other has lost a little of its charm.

Small Acrobat

Now your little fellow wants to run and skip, go sideways and backward. He wants to pull something after him. If he spies a wall he must walk on top of it, or a big piece of pipe must be crawled through. These are all variations of the art of walking. Each brings in a few extra sets of muscles, all of which need use to develop their full capacities.

Go on walks with your toddler. When you start, make the distance short so that he can make the round trip on his own legs.

When your toddler is in the house he still needs to be doing things. He will run, jump, pull things around after him. He will climb over the furniture and drive you crazy.

It's a good idea to provide some spot indoors where strenuous physical activity can go on without harm to the child or to your possessions.

Exercise Mat

This is the time to get an exercise mat. A discarded mattress is fine if you can find a large enough floor area to lay it.

Help your child to learn to somersault. Let him put his head and hands on the mat, rear stuck up in the air—a gentle push from you will send him over. He will chortle with glee and soon learn to do it without your push. It's an excellent exercise.

Do you know how to play wheelbarrow? Let the child lie on the floor on his abdomen. Pick up his legs and let him walk forward on his hands.

The closer to his knees you hold him the easier he finds it to go forward on his hands. Gradually move your support back to his feet and then even let go one foot. This is a wonderful exercise for the shoulders. Children enjoy playing this game among themselves.

Muscle Development

The wheelbarrow game leads to standing on head and hands. Muscles grow strong and supple when youngsters use them vigorously for exercises like this. But muscles become flabby and weak when youngsters use them vigorously for exercises like this. But muscles become flabby and weak when the chief indoor activity is watching TV. Quiet activity has its place in the life of a child but it must not take the place of the vigorous muscle building games. The early years are the important ones in which to develop sturdy bodies which will be a joy to their owners all their lives.

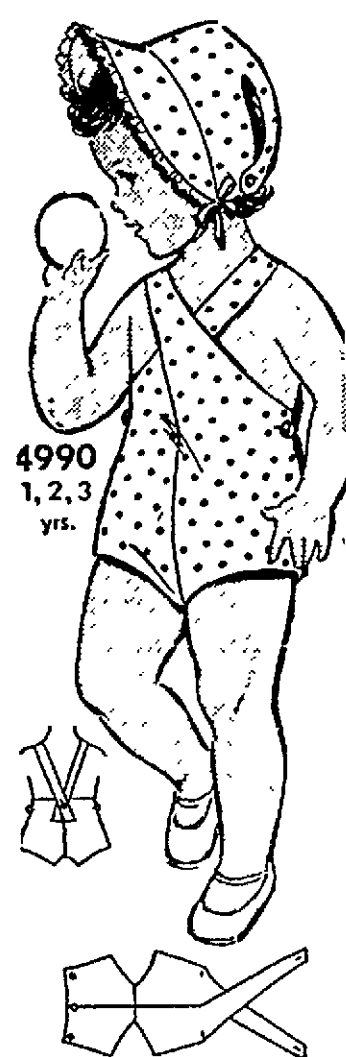

In the toddler years do not slip into the easy way of turning on the TV whenever you want a little peace and quiet. TV has many good things to recommend it but it can be greatly abused. If we are not careful our children become watchers, not actors. If we let them slide through childhood without vigorous physical exercises they will wake up in adolescence to discover that their bodies are more of a liability than a source of strength and pleasure.

Season Tomato Juice, Chill

BY ELIZABETH HILLYER

Paint a Chair

A chair in an eye-catching color is a refresher and a spark for a color scheme and for a room, and painted chairs are well on their way to big favor in fashion. Almost every household has a chair or a pair of them that will snap attention with a new coat of paint, and few do-it-yourself chores bring more delightful results.

What about the desk that no chair in the house ever looked good with because no finish seemed right? Painted chairs look good with any wood finish, so the wrong chair as it is will turn out to be the right chair once it wears a new color. And the simple ladder-back chairs may look so fine with new coats of paint that they can pull up to a handsome table or flank a fine chest.

What colors for these? Perhaps a pretty pink for the chair with a fruitwood desk—or a gold—yellow or olive green. The ladderbacks might turn bottle blue or turquoise.

lime, or geranium. Don't be satisfied with an ordinary color. Make it a special one, off the beaten path.

For inspiration, look for the most interesting and unusual shade in the pattern of a fabric in the room, perhaps the draperies. This color will be sure-fire as far as harmony with the room scheme goes, and picked out this way and repeated definitely, it will become important. New emphasis on color that's been minor in the scheme before makes a refreshing change in the whole scheme.

Joint Beauty Session Picks Up Idle Dividends

BY VIVIAN BROWN
AP Beauty Editor

When your beauty stock is low, pick up those old idle dividends and cash them in. Improve your best features to overshadow the others.

Every once in a while skin, hair and complexion show the ravages of sleepless nights and over indulgence in fat foods. There doesn't seem to be anything you can do to get yourself in shape, and the more you think about it, the worse the glamor department gets.

When you get to that charm impasse, call in a friend, and pool your beauty knowledge. A real beauty session complete with mirrors can put you back on the beauty beam.

What can you do for your friend? What can she do for you? What are your low points? What are hers?

Eyebrows make a good starter point. You'll want to tweezer all the little stragglers over your nose, between your brows. Below the eyebrow you'll do the same thing. But you will not remove any eyebrow hairs from the top of your brow, spoiling the arch. Tell your friend how to do it.

Mutual Pedicures

A pedicure is a good chore for a good friend to perform. It's so much easier to have someone else do it. Cotton goes between the toes to keep them apart. The nails are filed straight across, not rounded at the corners, and they should be smoothed with an emery board. The cuticle should be oiled as toenails have a habit of clogging up tight at that area. Apply a pretty polish to your nails, and see if you don't feel better for the effort.

The home permanent wave is a good idea performed with a companion. Your pajama partner can do your hair, then you can do hers, and if you get one of the books available on the subject, you can have lots of fun experimenting with new hair styles.

Even if you don't want curly hair, your coiffure will hang prettily with the body the permanent wave can give it. Some girls like the cap of curls with feathery bangs, and a friend comes in handy to wind the hair in back on the little spin curlers. The newer creamy neutralizers come in a plastic bottle so a few drops can be squeezed out on each curl.

Mouth Area

The pin curl permanents are easy to do also, particularly if a casually waved bob is desired. A kit is likely to contain curlers for neckline, rollers for brow curls, and pin curls for the rest of the hair. Choose what you need when you give the permanent wave.

It's a good idea to start your record session while the permanent waves are drying, and perhaps it's a fine time to experiment with new makeup techniques.

Many girls could stand improvement in the mouth area. The lip line should never go down, line expert cosmetician advises, and it should be filled out to the very end of the upper lip. That means that it should gently curve from its highest point, not go down sharply.

A beauty session at slumber time should include a facial, especially if the skin is troubled with blackheads. Use a warm towel to loosen the black heads and then cleanse the skin thoroughly with a good skin cleanser.

Bridge Play Depends on Planning

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD
U.S. Masters Team Champion

If you were looking forward to a dish of mashed potatoes you wouldn't think it very clever to boil the water first and then go out and buy the potatoes. Each step is, of course, necessary, but you must take each step in the right order. The same thing is true of many bridge hands.

West opens the king of clubs, and you win with the ace. You certainly want to ruff the 10 of clubs with one of dummy's trumps, but there is no hurry. Begin your planning by counting your losers. If you get a bad trump break, you will have to lose a trump trick. To guard against this danger you must find a way to get rid of both low diamonds.

You note that you can discard one diamond on one of dummy's high hearts. The best way to discard the other diamond is to set up dummy's hearts so that one of the low cards becomes a winner.

Entries Needed

You will have to get to dummy once to ruff a heart, a second time to ruff a second heart, and a third time to cash the last heart. You need three entries to dummy, each at the right time.

This should tell you how to proceed. You begin by leading a heart to dummy's ace. The next step is to ruff a low heart. There is very little danger of an over-ruff at this early stage.

Now you draw trumps by leading out the king of spades and then a low spade to dummy's ace. If the queen of spades fell, you would have no further problem. Since the

Canadian Firm Plans To Buy Company

Canadian International Paper company plans to acquire control of Hendershott Paper Products, Ltd. Canadian International, a wholly-owned subsidiary of International Paper company of New York, said it plans to purchase the majority of Hendershott outstanding common stock at $9 a share and share warrants at $3 each.

Terms of the acquisition state that at least 83 per cent of outstanding common shares would be issued if all warrants were exercised.

queen of spades is still out, you must proceed with the hearts. You cash the king of hearts, discarding a diamond, and ruff a heart. It doesn't help West to over-ruff. Whatever he does, he cannot stop you from ruffing your 10 of clubs in the dummy to cash the last heart. West can get only his queen of spades.

Your careful planning warned you to delay the club ruff as long as possible. You must ruff the 10 of clubs at the eighth trick instead of the second.

Daily Question

Partner opens with one heart and the next player passes. You hold: S-5, H-J 10 3 2, D-Q 10 4, C-8 7 6 3 2. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two hearts with a reliable partner; pass with a flighty partner. It is better to raise in the hope of shutting an opponent out. Despite the skimpiness of the hand you are unlikely to get into trouble with a good trump suit.

Evening With Orchestration Shows Mood, Drama

Weird Effects, Gaiety, Grandeur
Exhibited in Dance Movements

"An Evening with Orchestration" showed mood, music and drama through dance Thursday afternoon for Appleton High school students and Thursday evening for more than 600 people.

In "Veil of Orpheus" Kay M. Meyer, Nea Lee Nissen and Barbara Notebaart created the weird, breath-taking effect of being caught and chained by sound from which they could not escape. Simulated lightning, the coming and going of shadows and white figures who entered with measured step and encircled the three dancers heightened the music's mood.

Miss Notebaart demonstrated and Barbara Casper explained the language of movement. "The King and I" in interpretations of "The King and I," the gay exuberance of youth was captured in such music as "Hello, Happy Lovers," "I Whistle a Happy Tune," "Getting to Know You," "A Puzzlement," and "Western People Fun."

The influence of Oriental rhythm and gesture were felt in "The March of the Siamese Children" and "Song of the King." "My Lord and Master" showed the pomp and grandeur of the royal families. Black and white were used effectively in "I Have Dreamed," starring Miss Notebaart, and in "We Kiss in a Shadow."

"Visit to a Landmark," to the music of "Porgy and Bess," told a story in dance. Busloads of school children were brought to view a his-

Children Aren't Simple As ABC, Retson Says

School Progress Reports Based On Idea That They're All Different

Reporting the progress of elementary school children is "not as simple as ABC," James Retson, Huntley school principal, told the Lincoln and Washington Parent-Teachers associations Thursday night.

Retson is chairman of a committee named last spring by the board of education to study the progress report controversy. The six educators and four mothers on the committee have met about every two weeks and will report to the board this spring, Retson said.

The committee, he said, is studying two complaints about the present progress reports—there are not enough written reports and teachers are working too hard preparing them.

No ABCs Now
Appleton elementary children don't get report cards with letter or number grades. A written progress report is made by the teacher in the middle of the year, and two parent-teacher conferences are required each year.

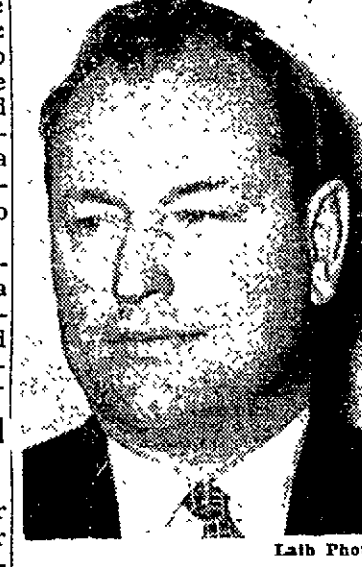

The grade standard philosophy, under which children were placed in grades, given marks of A through F and failed if they did not measure up to a set standard, assumed that all children are alike, Retson said. Failure in such a system often resulted in children dropping out of school, he added.

But since children are not all alike, Appleton schools use the child's capacity as a standard, he continued. The child is pushed and encouraged to work up to his own capacity.

Many Aspects of Growth
A child's development, Retson said, involves physical growth, creativity, social growth, artistic ability, emotional growth and academic growth.

If the schools could just be concerned with academic growth "... we'd be glad to do it," Retson said, but he explained that how a child feels will affect how he performs academically, and a child can't leave part of himself at home when he goes to school.

Miss Helen Sweet, Washington school principal and a member of Retson's committee, explained the group and individual tests used to mea-

A Lovelier You By Mary Sue Miller

Material Gains

The significance of fabrics in dressing attractively cannot be overstressed. For better or worse, a fabric affects your figure and reflects your fashion flair.

To get the most that fabrics offer, you have to judge them on three counts: quality, figure flattery and fashion merit. In judging, remember that the simplest costume—a spare little dress, for example—gains distinction via quality material.

Flattery depends on weight and texture. Generally speaking, crisp, bodied fabrics enhance the thin figure. Full figures take to medium weights and smooth surfaces. Either bulky or clinging materials are best suited to model figures.

The fashion merit of a fabric is governed by fashion trends. And like a ball in slow motion, trends rise and fall. The trick

Lakeview Board Director Names Citizens Group

Committee to Study New State Law on High School Districts

Neenah—Formation of a citizens committee by the Lakeview school board to study, evaluate and inform residents of the Lakeview school district of the towns of Neenah and Vinland about the new state law on school districts was announced today.

Schroeder

The new law requires all territory in the state to be in school districts operating high schools by July 1, 1962.

Appointed to the committee by Armin Schroeder, director of the district, and approved by the board at its meeting this week are William Burger, Mrs. Joseph Cowling, Vern Hanson, Laurel Heaney, Ed Hill, Jack Meyer and Mrs. Robert Verteen.

The committee will have its organizational meeting at the school at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday. The Lakeview school board resolved to have the assistance and guidance of a citizens committee in connection with a study of how the new law placing all territory in the state in school districts operating high schools will affect the Lakeview school district.

Additional purposes of the law, to evaluate alternatives available to the district, determine comparative costs, consider educational aspects and prepare a report for Lakeview school district residents.

The committee, Schroeder said, would undoubtedly expand its views by cooperating with neighboring committees and by reference to county school committee and state department of public instruction reports.

The Lakeview school board, he continued, is interested in Elisha D. Smith public library by Mrs. Daisy Bruhl, children's librarian.

Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts Thursday chatted with Oshkosh State college students before and after his speech at the college, gesturing with his hands when summing up his points. The senator will oppose Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota in the April 5 Wisconsin presidential primary election, regarded as a significant show of strength. ## Judge Defers Rape, Assault Case Hearing

Girl Victim Still In Hospital; Feb. 29 Set as New Date

Oshkosh — The preliminary hearing on charges of forcible rape and assault with intent to do great bodily harm and without regard to life, filed against Rodney C. Hughes, 23, 809 Marquette street, Menasha, this morning was adjourned to 10:30 a.m. on Monday, Feb. 29.

Acting Municipal Judge Herbert J. Mueller adjourned the hearing on the request of Dist. Atty. Jack Steinhilber who said the complaining witness, a 15-year-old Menasha girl, still is confined to The-Clark hospital at Neenah where she is recovering from stab wounds allegedly inflicted by Hughes on a town of Vinland road on Feb. 12.

Judge Mueller ordered the bond continued at $10,000. Hughes is being held in the Winnebago county jail in default of payment of the bond. The condition of the girl has been reported as improving and that she is making slow progress. She walked a mile in near-zero temperatures to a farmhouse early in the morning of Feb. 12, wearing only one shoe and her coat, to secure aid after the attack.

Hughes had been hospitalized an hour earlier after his car went into the ditch on County Trunk AG near Gillingham Corners near before the girl reached the farmhouse. He was treated at the hospital and then taken to the Winnebago county jail for arraignment later that morning on the rape and assault charges.

Gets Jail Term On Check Charge

Oshkosh — Richard J. Boogaard, 39, of 139 S. John street, Kimberly, this morning was given a six months county jail term on worthless check charges by Acting Municipal Judge Herbert J. Mueller.

Boogaard was arrested Jan. 27 and has been held in jail since then in lieu of $500 bond. Five worthless checks totaling $280 were recovered. Boogaard, who is on parole from the Kansas state prison for a similar offense, will be allowed to work under the Huber act.

Jan. 1, according to the building inspector, the mayor said an extension of those percentages would show that 1,710 homes have the drain tiles connected to the sanitary sewer, that 244 homes have no eaves troughs and that 620 homes do not have downspout extensions of 3 feet or longer.

Return of the cards sent to each water user of the city is being requested to determine the areas where flooding and backup has occurred and to help correct the sewer problems to eliminate future backups.

A total of 2,907 answers were received on that question, or 90.6 per cent of the cards received.

Eaves troughs were listed for 3,044 homes, or 94.8 per cent, while 167 said they had no eaves troughs. The number of persons who have downspout extensions of 3 feet or more is 2,575, or 80.2 per cent while 425, or 13.2 per cent, said they had no downspout extensions.

Based on an estimate of 4,700 homes in the city as of

426 List Sewer Flooding Problem

62.3 Per cent of Cards Returned in Neenah Survey

Neenah — Returns in the city's postal card survey to determine the extent of the sanitary sewer flooding problem already received reveal that 426 persons had a basement flooding problem on the Dec. 27-28 weekend, Mayor Bell reported today.

Thus far 3,211 returns have been received out of the 5,150 sent out, which includes commercial and industrial establishments, or about 62.3 per cent.

The maximum depth of the sewer backup on the Christmas weekend flooding was listed as 48 inches. A steady and heavy rainfall that weekend melted several inches of snow already on the ground, causing too much of a demand on the sanitary sewer capacity and resulting in many of sewers backing up into the homes, particularly on the west side of Neenah.

Ninety-nine persons replied their homes had been flooded in 1959 and 99 had homes flooded in 1958. During 1957 there was sewer backup flooding in 133 homes.

Foundation drains were connected to the sanitary sewers in 1,169 of the homes, according to the returns received, or 36.4 per cent of the answers. Another 1,330, or 36.4 per cent of the answers, Another 1,330, or 41.4 per cent said their drains were not con-

Rockets Make Final Home Start Against Co-Leading Kimberly

Bluejays Close Out-of-Town Schedule in Saturday Encounter on Clintonville Floor

Neenah — Neenah and Menasha near the end of the line in Mid-Eastern conference play with their two games this weekend.

The Rockets, who have a date at Two Rivers tonight, are home Saturday evening to co-leading Kimberly. They are unbeaten in their previous eight home starts.

Menasha will be home to Shawano tonight and will conclude its out of town slate with a tangle at Clintonville Saturday.

For Neenah, Saturday's test will be its final home engagement unless it works its way through the Menasha regional and returns with a berth in the sectional.

Rocket seniors playing their final home conference games will be Jack Ankerson, Dick Wilson, Don Althaus and Tom Smith.

United Pattern 6-3, 5-4, 7-6, paced by Laura Law's 9-20. Cyrena Sprister hit 11-18 for the losers. Tews beat Schultz 4-3 and 6-1 in the first two games but lost the third 3-2. Bill Coenen's 7-15 led Tews and Bernice Meyer had 8-19 for Schultz's.

Woeckner's moved into the lead by defeating Lakeview 15-2 and 13-11 in the first and third games, losing the sectional 9-8. Louis Helmke hit 13-21 for Woeckner's and Gene Law's 11-18 paced Lakeview.

Woeckner's now has a 16-8 first place record with a 1-game advantage over Haase and Drews.

In addition to looking for their ninth straight home triumph, the Red and White will attempt to avenge the fourth first round defeat. The Twin Citizens have atoned for three of their first four losses.

The Rockets bowed to Kimberly 62-57 in their Kimberly meeting in their only off-night since Jan. 1. It was in this game that Coach Ole Jorgensen called a time out and went down to test the basket.

No Advance Sale There will be no advance ticket sale for the Saturday encounter.

At Clintonville, the Bluejays will try to make their third sweep against a conference foe. They've won the series with New London and Two Rivers and beat the Truckers the first time around.

The Jays currently occupy fifth place and barring a complete collapse could do no worse than tie for that spot. They'd have to lose three and Two Rivers win its final three for the deadlock.

Against Shawano tonight, the Menashans hope to continue "their second meeting success" which they started two years ago. That February the Jays ended the Indians' long win string and then last year Menasha also scored an upset win in the second game between the two foes.

Menasha closes its conference schedule against Kaukauna here next Friday night while the same night Neenah will be at New London.

Uruguayan Eligible to Retire On Full Pay When He Is 50

BY BEN BASSETT

Montevideo, Uruguay — This is the country where a worker can retire on full pay when he is 50 years old. Uruguay's people are well fed and literate. They enjoy the most stable history of government in Latin America.

But the key to Utopia has not been discovered in Uruguay. President Eisenhower, on his visit here, is not apt to get many workable ideas for improving the U. S. social security system.

Not all Uruguayans retire at 50, by any means. But say you were one who did so, back in 1948. You had held two jobs, as many persons do, and the government guaranteed you a lifetime pension.

The AP assigned its foreign news editor to preview the route President Eisenhower will take next week when he leaves for South America. Brazil, Argentina and Chile were covered earlier. Today the series concludes with a look at the way people live in Uruguay.

equal to the average of your total pay for the five years preceding your retirement. It looked as if you had it made.

The Uruguayan peso, when you retired 12 years ago, could command 55 cents in U.S. money. Today it is worth 9 cents. Your pension buys much less today than it used to. Prices have risen as your pension lost value.

That is an example of the problems Uruguay's government faces. At this stage at least, it knows that the people won't stand for a change in the system. The government has to seek new ways to stabilize the peso and get fresh sources of revenue.

The retirement system, probably the most costly in the world, has been in effect 30 years. A worker puts 7 to 12 per cent of his pay into the fund, his employer a like amount. The government must meet deficits.

Government Active

The social security system doesn't stop there. Among other things it provides widows' benefits, free medical and dental care.

The chances that Uruguay can work itself out of this and other problems offer odds that would hardly appeal to the thousands of people who crowd this nation's gambling casinos.

Here the government has a finger in almost any activity you can name. It has a monopoly on alcohol, and on the refining and distribution of oil (all imported). It operates some of the banks, the railroads, a tire factory and even night clubs. It has a monopoly on gambling. Figures are scarce, but no the casino at night, he can take in the theater or make a wager at a neighborhood oasis.

He can have a pretty good life.

But lately things have tightened up, and there is a feeling things may get worse. The housewife hunts vainly for a roll of film to take snapshots. The pipe-smoker who used to savor British tobacco winces today over a Uruguayan brand. Imports have been slashed in efforts to steady the economy and keep the peso from shrinking further.

The Colorado party, which ran Uruguay 93 years, tried to set varying values for the peso in domestic and international dealings. It ran up a record of confusion. The man who knew somebody in the right places could enrich himself. Last year the country had enough of these shenanigans. It voted a new conservative government into power.

This regime is trying to get things straightened out in the face of discontent over rising living costs. As an example of its methods, it has just doubled the price of gasoline (to about 40 cents a gallon).

A communist minority is trying to seize its opportunities. It portrays the United States as a villain in Cuba.

Sure of Welcome

But Eisenhower will bet a hearty welcome when he parades through Montevideo. There is no question of popular friendship for the United States. The government was unhappy for a time with U.S. tariff policy toward Uruguay's important wool exports, but this problem has worked itself out for the time being.

Uruguay's government runs under an arrangement unique in the western hemisphere. The Swiss-like system is topped by a 9-man executive council. Its chairmanship rotates. When Eisenhower comes here March 2 the chairman will be Benito Nardone, 53, son of an Italian immigrant.

The Uruguayans' attitude toward their government has kept the country free of revolution for more than 50 years, but the system has shortcomings. The main one, from some points of views, is that the country has no strong executive. Top Wittenberg — Ten speeders paid fines totaling $140 when they appeared before Police Justice Walter Netzel.

Speeders and fines were: Bert Borgeson, 51, Chicago, $13; Chris Tessman, 34, Elmwood Park, Ill., $18; Frank Delashmit, 24, Bellwood, Ill., $10; James Pender, 21, Ontonagon, Mich., $16; Noah Edgar Poe, 52, Norcrossville, Mo., $12; Ralph Kahl, 47, West Alton, $16; James Effa, 23, Kaukauna, $12; Eugene Schoenhof, 28, Birmamwood, $13; Erwin Rettkowski, Tigerton, $18, and Otto Kersten, 24, Tigerton, $12.

Other fines levied were for illegal passing to Raymond Nonnen Macher, 45, Antigo. He paid $10. Attalla Pipe and Foundry, Attalla, Ala., paid a $100 fine for no contract authority. No speedometer cost an Iola man, Martin Beyersdorf, 27, $10.

Two Rural Seymour Sisters Injured on Way to Attend School

Two rural Seymour sisters were injured about 8 a.m. Wednesday on their way to school when their car skidded and rolled over.

County police said Mary Lou Mueller, 16, the driver, and Joyce Mueller, 14, both of route 3, Seymour, received bumps and bruises.

The girls were driving west on County Trunk VV, police said, when the car went out of control on the snow-slick road, skidded into a ditch and rolled over.

State Group Plans County Board Study

Madison — The Wisconsin Legislative council's county boards committee Wednesday outlined its plan for next year, including public hearings throughout the state.

The committee was set up by the 1959 legislature to make a study of county board operations and report recommendations.

Population increases and shifts and the problems created have brought requests from some counties to explore county board organization and operations to meet changing conditions.

decisions are committee decisions.

Today the biggest gambling here in Uruguay is not done across the government's roulette tables in the government's casinos. The biggest gamble is whether Nardone and his associates can keep from foundering as they seek to safeguard an island of welfare-statism in a sea of domestic grumbling and international economic pressures.

Lawrence Says

Soviet Foreign Aid Restricts Russian People

Development Slow Because Money's Being Exported

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — While Soviet Premier Khrushchev

tours Asia and how many billions of dollars of "aid" the Soviet Union is giving to "underdeveloped" nations, he never lets his own people know what he is spending abroad.

For the Soviet Union itself is in many respects one of the most underdeveloped countries in the world. If the censorship within Russia didn't prevent the people there from knowing how the product of their labor is being wasted abroad, they would surely revolt.

The greater part of the Soviet Union, for instance, does not have electric lights. It is estimated that the Russians by 1955 will have less than half of the electric light and power of the United States.

As for coal, crude petroleum, natural gas, canned foods, cotton fabrics, railroad mileage, freight cars, and many other articles, the Soviet Union is anywhere from 30 to 50 years behind the United States.

Farm Production

Wages are much lower in the Soviet Union. The approximate buying power of the worker there is about $1,000 a year, as compared with $4,700 for the average worker in the United States. The farm situation is even worse on the Soviet side. In the United States the average farmer produces enough for himself and 20 other persons, plus more to spare, whereas in the Soviet Union the average farmer produces enough for himself and four other persons — with nothing left to spare.

Khrushchev Boasts

The latest figures, however, show that the Soviet Union is throwing more than $3.6 billion around the world to aid "underdeveloped" countries, which sums could be much better spent on the Soviet people directly.

Credits granted by the Soviet Union to the United Arab Republic alone total $1 billion, 182 million, of which $304 million went to Syria, and the rest to Egypt, a large part of this for the Aswan dam.

In Latin America, the Soviets have put $104 million in Argentina and have promised $100 million to Cuba.

The Soviet government grants credits to "satellite" countries inside the Soviet bloc, and these advances now amount to about $7.5 billion according to Moscow's own claims. Western experts, however, say this is an exaggeration and that the total runs to around $2.25 billion since 1956. All this money could do much today for the Soviet people if used directly to improve their standard of living. Premier Khrushchev boasts of his program in speeches outside the Soviet Union. He said a few days ago in an address to the Indian parliament:

"Our wealth, our industry, have been created within a historically short time by the intensive labor of the Soviet people. Although we have no surplus capital, we are rendering ever-increasing assistance to states needing such aid. At the present time the Soviet Union is tendering assistance in the construction of hundreds of industrial plants and power stations in underdeveloped countries.

Money is Lost "We want these countries to get on their own feet, we want them to create their own industry, capable of producing not only consumer goods but means of production as well. This will help underdeveloped countries to develop their own industrial base and speed up their economic development. . . .

Much of the money loaned will never come back. The Soviet people will have to continue their "intensive labor" as they live in austerity. Families often are crowded into a single room. Millions of homes are without sanitary facilities on the premises.

Kept Ignorant Plainly, the communists believe that they can infiltrate and ultimately conquer many underdeveloped countries. They can succeed only if their own people are kept ignorant of what the leaders are doing. It might be asked, if the various propaganda organizations in the free world, including America's own agencies, are stressing in broadcasts across the Iron Curtain this waste of the Soviet people's funds.

The United States is continuing to plan for about $4 billion a year of aid to other countries, both in military and economic programs. It is important to be competitive with the Soviet Union and to force Moscow to strain more and more to spend the Soviet people's substance. It's one way to hasten the day of internal revolt within Russia and China, which must come eventually if there is to be a relaxation of tension and an assurance of world peace. (Copyright, 1960)

Now's The Time to Consider Planting

These Tips Will Help Your Garden

Observe these DO's and DON'Ts for sowing seeds, and it will make your gardening much easier and much more successful.

Sow your seeds to a depth of three times the diameter of the seed. Very fine seeds, such as petunia seeds, can be sprinkled on the top of the soil and tamped down lightly with the back of the hoe or a board. If you have difficulty spreading the fine seeds, mix them with sand and they will be easier to handle.

Seed can be sown in rows or broadcast, depending on the achieve. For sowing in rows, start with well-defined furrows, straight or curving, as desired, made with a pointed stick for small seed or with the edge of the hoe for larger seed.

If you space your seeds carefully when sowing in either rows or hills, you will avoid the necessity of a lot of thinning out of the young seedlings later on.

When questions come up, and you are in doubt about some particular aspect of planting with seed, you have a ready-made handy encyclopedia in your seed catalogue and on the back of every seed packet.

The packets will give you the height to which your plant will grow, the color and size of your plant, and whether it is an annual or perennial. You'll also find suggestions for sowing, thinning, germinating time, and helpful remarks on just what to expect from your plants.

Need Warmth

When sowing indoors, remember that seeds need warmth to germinate but they don't need light. Cover the seed boxes with newspaper until they germinate and then give them full light by a warm window. Keep the containers where temperatures run from 60 to 70 degrees until the seeds sprout. After that 55 to 65 degrees is best. Water with care, for too much water rots the seedlings.

Neighborhood Appeal Affects Home Value

Floor-to-Ceiling Door Advocates Say It Provides Better Ventilation

BY ANDY LANG

From many different sources come these various tidbits of information of interest to homeowners:

In discussing factors that affect the value of a house, appraisal authority Sterling H. Albert says:

"The appeal of a neighborhood is strengthened if the buildings are attractive as a group and harmonize with one another and with their physical surroundings. A property widely at variance with the architectural quality of the neighborhood normally exhibits a lesser degree of desirability."

New Trend

Thinking about painting your house, inside or out? If the answer is yes, you're lucky you didn't live in England in the 16th century. In that period, the English Guild of Painters had a "charter" which, with legal backing, forbade anyone who did not have seven years apprenticeship from doing any painting.

Advocates of the new trend of floor-to-ceiling doors say that it provides better ventilation throughout the house and lowers the costs for heating and air conditioning.

The National Bureau of Standards has concluded, after a series of tests, that insofar as it affects human fatigue, the resilience factor of various floor materials is of less importance than the kind of soles you have on your shoes.

Home builders complain that they are caught in a squeeze because, on the one hand, they are faced with rising costs of land, labor and materials and, on the other, the buying public is growing more and more conscious of quality products and workmanship.

New Homes

The people who deal with figures say that one family in every five will be living in a new dwelling within 10 years.

A building materials specialist, William Herbert, points out that while every house hunter almost automatically checks for adequate closet space, he often neglects to make certain there is storage room for such things as lawn mowers, screens, storm windows, out-of-season clothing and other things used only periodically.

Decorator Ruth Strauss suggests that a room can be made distinctively interesting by using a brilliant color on one wall to compliment the subdued color on the other walls.

Theater Operators Have Bad Memories

Toledo, Ohio — Owners of a newly remodeled drive-in theater still shudder at the thought of their grand opening. A pony which was to provide free rides for children became ill. A miniature train broke down after a few trips. Someone cut loose a $300, 30-foot-long helium-filled balloon which hasn't been seen since. Rain drenched the premises for hours.

Offers Tips for Selling House

Expert Says Owner Should Give Home Personality to Help Sale

BY VIVIAN BROWN

Spring is a good time to sell your house. Trees, bushes and flowers are coming to life then, the ground shows promise of lush greenness, and the buyer may be in a better mood to appreciate your sales pitch than during the hot summer or cold winter. It is no easy feat to sell a house. It may take quite a while to get your price, and your house may take on a carnival air as prospective buyers traipse through.

The Tips There's no better way to speed up the sale than to give your house personality. Make it different from other houses.

Give it a homey atmosphere. Here are some suggestions:

1. Keep your house spotless. Floors should be waxed, windows washed, everything should shine. The fact that you are not selling the furniture doesn't mean it shouldn't be kept in good condition. It is, after all, "window dressing" for your home.

2. The outdoors should be kept manicured—bushes trimmed, lawn mowed, trees pruned.

3. The house should be at a comfortable temperature. You don't want the lookers to leave because the house is too cold. If it is a warm day, keep the electric fan going. If you have an air conditioner, get the house cool early in the morning and keep it that way.

4. Find out what the prospective buyer wants in a house. Play up those features—closets or whatever, and if you do not have features that they have set their hearts on, you might as well stop your sales pitch. Save your breath for the next customer.

5. The aroma of hot apple pie, corn bread or a tray of cookies can put the stamp "home" on your house. Avoid distressing odors such as cabbage, brussels sprouts, garlic. Spray the living room with cologne for a pleasant scent. Put flowers and greens through the house.

What About Schools 6. If the house shopper has children, stress the nearness of schools, other children of the same age in the neighborhood, parks, recreation centers, and local amusements.

7. Act as though you loved the house, and that you are sorry to be leaving it. The prospective purchaser would like to feel the house was cozy enough to please you, and that you regret having to give it up. If you're being relocated in your job or have outgrown the house, it's a fine idea to tell the lookers.

8. If you have a real "hot prospect," put yourself out a bit. Serve a soft drink, coffee, tea or what have you, and use the lull to brag on the house.

9. Know your house. Many people who own homes do not know the names of the furnace, what kind of pipes are in the house, or wiring details. They may not be acquainted with the roofing. State whether the roof is asphalt, play up any advantages in the structure of the house. Women are attracted to closets, kitchen equipment, they enjoy attractive gimmicks such as dutch doors, removable windows, outdoor barbecues, indoor barbecues, built-in bookcases.

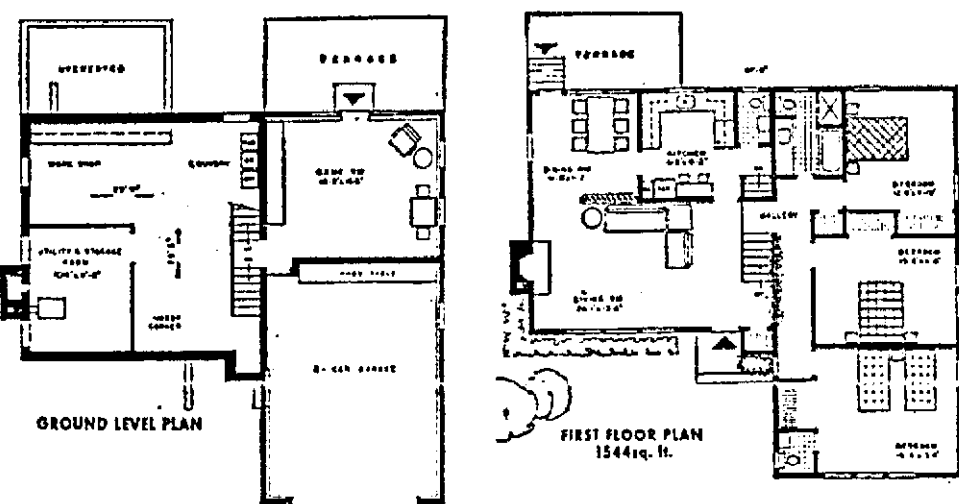

10. If there is a special play area for children, equipment—such as swings, slides, sand boxes that might go with the house, point it out. Women are not above buying an expensive house for just the features they could add themselves. A rambling rose bush has sold many an ordinary little house.

Early Spring Seeding

Soil Preparation First Step for Providing Lush, Green Home Lawn

Dreaming about having a beautiful carpet of green grasses around your home this spring? You can know, in the mixture you purchase. Good grass seed, careful soil preparation, and seeding in early spring will turn your dream into reality. It is important to get an early start because grasses grow best in cool weather. Success also depends upon deep cultivation of the soil prior to seeding, because roots reach down in search of moisture and nutrients all summer long.

Prepare Soil It pays to prepare the soil as well as you possibly can, for enriched with fertilizer and reinforced with water-holding peatmoss, your soil will maintain a green lawn for years and years. As a general recommendation, gardening experts suggest 4 pounds of an all purpose fertilizer, such as 5-10-5 or 6-10-4 and at least 2 bushels of peatmoss per 100 square feet. Ground limestone at 2 to 3 pounds per 100 square feet is necessary if the existing soil is known to be on the acid side.

Don't despair if you have a heavy clay soil. You can still have that green carpet, for soil conditioners worked into the soil along with the fertilizer and peatmoss improve its textural quality. Great quantities of peatmoss are the answer for very sandy soils which naturally have no water holding capacity.

Aside from thorough soil preparation, it is important that you obtain quality seed. Seed mixtures are prepared by specialists. Some are designed for sunny and others for shaded areas. Some are especially useful in hot, dry climates and others are recommended to withstand heavy traffic. The list is given on the seed bag or package. The major permanent railings outside our house have begun to develop small rust spots. Must this rust be removed before the railings are repainted?

Answer: Brush away the loose rust particles with a wire brush. Apply one of the special red primer coats which can be applied directly over firm rust. Then paint. Remember the important part: that the loose rust particles must be removed first.

QUESTION: We are planning to add an extra room to our house. Some of the work will be done by professionals, but we expect to do most of it ourselves. Is there any advice you can give us? ANSWER: The most important advice that can be given about the construction of an addition is to check with building authorities before you do anything else. It is vital to know how far you can go with the addition and still stay within bounds set by the zoning code. Every year, thousands of homeowners are forced to tear down additions which violate local regulations. Once you have determined what your rights are, remember this important point: the larger the addition, the cheaper the cost proportionally. Thus, it might cost $3000 to build an extra room to a certain size, but it would cost considerably less than twice as much to build an extra room twice as large. In most cases, you will have to get a permit—but the building authorities will let you know about that.

Here's the Answer

QUESTION: I recently painted our dining room and now I notice a number of spots at difference places on the wall. Can you tell me what caused this? And is there anything I can do about it now?

ANSWER: This is a condition known as spotting. It is caused by an uneven absorption of the paint. It may have resulted from trying to stretch the paint too far and thus failing to cover the old paint sufficiently. Or it may be that you did not prime the surface properly. The chances are that another coat of paint will correct the condition. Do not thin the paint this time and do not brush it out too much.

QUESTION: We are getting ready to move soon. What is the best way to handle the rugs? Should they be rolled up or tied or folded some particular way?

ANSWER: This is something you should take up with your movers ahead of time. Most companies prefer that you do not touch the rugs except for removing any tacks that may be holding them down. The movers can best judge when they arrive—and see the size and type of rugs—how to roll and handle them. Should there be inclement weather on the day you are moving, make sure the movers put down floor runners to protect your rugs. In fact, in calling to find out about the manner in which the rugs are to be handled, make sure the company furnishes its movers with such runners. In dealing with experienced, reputable companies, you will find that they take all possible precautions to protect your property.

Appeal Opens On Discharge Of Patrolman

Irving Partika
Denies 11 of 14
County Charges

The civil service appeal board hearing into the firing of former county traffic patrolman Irving J. Partika was adjourned late Thursday afternoon after 3 1/2 hours of testimony by seven witnesses. It will be resumed at 9 a. m. Saturday, Feb. 27.

Partika denied 11 of the 14 charges leveled against him by the county board's traffic police and radio committee. It was these allegations which brought his discharge Feb. 8. He explained his actions in the other two instances claiming no wrongdoing.

The complaints ranged from refusing to accept an assignment to sleeping on duty and misuse of the county's mileage payment system.

Two More Witnesses
Corporation Counsel Raymond P. Dohr told the appeal board he intended to call at least two more witnesses, county traffic patrol Capt. Ronald Decker and Patrick Heenan, chairman of the traffic police committee. Dohr said he also intended to cross-examine Partika.

Samuel Sigman, Partika's attorney, said he would call either Sheriff Robert Heinrich or Undersheriff Donald Heinrich for testimony.

Witnesses called by Dohr Thursday included Paul Vanden Heuvel, 1009 N. Wilson street, Little Chute; Frank Krueger, 1419 N. Douglas street, a county radio dispatcher; Sgts. Lowell Veitch and George Elise and Patrolmen Stanley Arnold and William Janssen, all of the county traffic patrol.

Partika was the only witness called by Sigman. He denied driving recklessly while on the way to an accident; reluctantly checking on possible drunken driver and driving too slow in a no passing zone; spending too much time in a restaurant; being warned twice to stop so-called "bad practices"; refusing to cover an accident assignment; improper use of the mileage payment system; failing to patrol in an area assigned to him; improper conduct in being found at the county jail reading a newspaper; having violation and satisfy the in-orders to remain at an accident scene instead of escorting him; being seen at his home on a day when he had called in sick and that there was a party going on at the home at twenty minutes late for the time. But, he testified, he work on Feb. 24, 1959, but was too ill to work and defied it was the only time in his four years of employment

Frank Randerson, route 4, Appleton, told Outagamie County Sheriff Robert Heinrich today that vandals earlier in the week had started his tractor, driven it into a field and left the motor running. He said attempts to steal gasoline from his home pump also had been made. The farm is a quarter-mile west of Freedom on County Trunk E.

Shares Again Move Higher

Good Advances in Moderate Trading
In Early Afternoon

New York—The stock market kept enough momentum from this week's strong rebound to make a fairly good gain early this afternoon. Trading was moderately active.

Gains of fractions to about 2 points outnumbered losses. The market was slightly higher on balance in an irregular start. Prices strengthened as the session wore on.

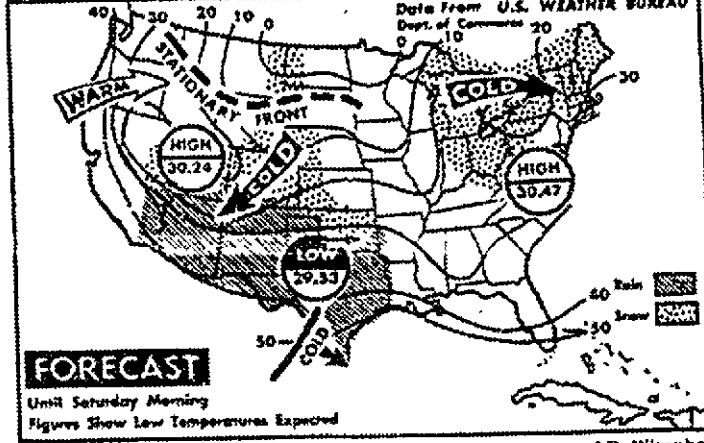

The uncertain tone at the start was linked in part to profit taking on the past two days of advance and also to precautionary selling in view of the 3-day weekend ahead. The market will be closed Monday for Washington's birthday.

Short Position
The drop in the short position reported after Thursday's close was disappointing to Wall street from a technical angle. This figure represents the total of stock borrowed to effect short sales, stock which short sellers hope can be replaced in the future at lower prices. The future purchases represent a kind of buying cushion under the market.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 4.44 to 626.63.

Calves estimated receipts 1,000; Thursday's market 1.00-lites 14.00-18.00.

Scattered Snow Showers are expected tonight in New England, mountains of New York and Pennsylvania, the Ohio and Tennessee valleys and the Lakes area with rain and showers in the Plains, west Gulf coast and the southwest. The western parts of the northern and central Plains and the Rockies can expect snow flurries. Colder weather will move into the east and southwest.

Weather of Fine Variety To Remain

Mild days and crisp, cold nights seem to be the fare of the Fox Cities. Lack of snow, sunshine and prospects of a coming spring make the weather bearable to non-skiers, anyway.

The 5-day forecast calls for normal temperatures and little or no precipitation. Heavy snow, strong winds and rain lashed wide sections of the south and east today, a virtual repeat performance of winter's second violent climatic attack in less than a week.

The stormy weather, erupting in the southland, swept northward into the east, following the pattern of the blockbuster which ripped across the eastern quarter of the nation last weekend.

Tornadoes ripped across sections of Louisiana, Florida and North Carolina. Winds up to 80 m.p.h. pounded western Virginia, piling up huge drifts of heavy, wet snow.

Snow piled up more than a foot high in Kentucky and Tennessee and Virginia.

A movie on Camp Wawbeek for crippled children was shown by Leslie Robinson, president of the society, and plans for an all-day benefit tea March 30 at the home of Mrs. Gordon Derber were discussed.

Hold Orientation Meeting for Seal Workers

An orientation meeting to familiarize Easter Seal drive workers with the county Easter Seal society was held Wednesday night at the American Legion post. Mrs. Robert Schroeder, vice president of the society, is 1960 fund drive chairman.

Mrs. Hazel Leedke, case work chairman, explained that the cost of prostheses furnished by the society has gone up; artificial legs, for example, now cost $650 a pair, while braces sell from $25 to $125. All prostheses are custom-made, she said, and in the case of children, must be changed frequently.

Mrs. Fred Gehrk, report-filing for the Homebound Gift shop committee, said the work of 39 homebound trainees from Outagamie county is now being sold through the shop in the former Rio theater building. In 1959, $2,016.60 worth of goods were sold through the shop, the proceeds going to the handicapped persons who produced the goods.

A movie on Camp Wawbeek for crippled children was shown by Leslie Robinson, president of the society, and plans for an all-day benefit tea March 30 at the home of Mrs. Gordon Derber were discussed.

Non-Inflation May be Causing Market Slump

Federal Surplus One
Deflationary Item;
Stocks Overpriced

BY STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press News Analyst

Washington—It's just possible, government officials believe, that Wall street's nervous tremors are caused by the fear of non-inflation.

The economists say they can see nothing else in the business outlook for 1960 to explain the sinking spells of the stock market.

Production, income and profits are at record highs and expected to keep going up at moderate speed. Gradually improving employment is forecast.

These are substantially the same forecasts as were made on New Year's day. Only one significant change has been made: There may be less inflation than we've gotten used to.

No 1960 Boom
Practically nobody expected the economy to race. Remember the headlines over the new year forecasts? They said: "Record '60 prosperity seen, but no boom."

That's exactly what we're getting. And even if a recession should come along later, government economists say the first reliable signs won't be visible for at least a month or so.

They contend that President Eisenhower's forecast that the economy will keep expanding "through 1960 and beyond" is still as good as anybody's guess.

So why did sentiment in the money markets shift in January? Why the recent recurrent stock-selling waves followed by good rallies that don't quite make up the losses?

For answer, a good many people here point to the White House. The psychological squeezing the inflation out.

change, they say, dates from Eisenhower's State of the Union message.

Earlier that week the steel dispute ended—with a hardly inflationary settlement. The stock market swiftly zipped to a record high. Then Eisenhower announced the government would run a surplus of more than four billion dollars next year. The market has looked less robust ever since.

The big surplus—to the extent it comes true—means the great weight of federal fiscal operations will be deflationary. The government will be taking in more money—and soaking up more buying power than it spends.

The treasury will be engaged in paying off debt instead of deficit financing. It will not be competing heavily with private business for investment funds. Already credit has eased a trifle and interest rates have fallen a little.

Small Price Rise
Some of the economists who had foreseen a 1960 price rise of 1 1/2 to 2 per cent now expect only about 1 per cent. Wholesale prices have been edging down.

Farm prices are expected to continue to decline. This is not an outlook that spurs people to buy stocks as a hedge against depreciation of their dollars. Nor is it a business climate in which you can count on making a fast speculative buck.

And many of the shares that were bought in expectation of ever-advancing inflation are likely to be overpriced. Today's market seems to be squeezing the inflation out.

Sputnik Was Ally in Getting Defense Program Funds

Gen. Taylor Partly Successful In Fight for Military Manpower

BY GEN. MAXWELL D. TAYLOR, ret.
From the summer of 1956 on, the primary concern of the defense department continued to be the mounting costs of the missile and heavy weapons programs. It became clear that these would generate costs in subsequent years far beyond the level of feasible budgets.

In February, 1957, the services were told they could anticipate a $38 billion defense budget for fiscal year 1958, which would require a 10 per cent reduction in military personnel. This meant the army, going from a million men to 900,000.

The issue came to a head in a dramatic meeting of the national security council on July 25, 1957. Although during the spring the Soviets had directed threats and warnings at Norway, Denmark, Greece and Iceland, the summer was comparatively quiet. Hungary and Suez were in the background; the shock of Sputnik I was yet to come.

Reduction Proposed

This short period of freedom from crisis was deemed opportune to propose a reduction of forces somewhat along the line of the abortive Radford proposal of the previous summer. Recognizing no doubt, the impossibility of obtaining the concurrence of all the joint chiefs of staff, Sec. Wilson decided to produce virtually singlehanded a long-range program for presentation to the national security council.

It hit the armed services like a bombshell. The service

New Eminent Domain Law Group Named

Madison — Gov. Gaylord Nelson named a 16-man committee Friday to monitor operation of Wisconsin's liberalized eminent domain law.

Nelson, a sponsor of the new legislation, said he is "well satisfied" the law assures the rights of private landowners but that he wants the committee "to check on any flaws that may develop."

The revised eminent domain act goes into effect April 5. It employs new procedures for acquiring private property for highway right-of-way and other public use. A more liberal concept of just compensation is detailed in the measure.

The new committee consists of several members of the citizens group that drafted the eminent domain bill, plus members representing the legislature, state and county governments and farmers.

Citizen members are Milwaukee Atty. Charles Goldberg and E. C. Pommerening; William Crouch, vice president of the American Appraisal company, Milwaukee; Robert Waldo, Milwaukee Gas Light company; and Prof. Jacob Beuscher of the University of Wisconsin law school.

Government Units
Representing governmental units are C. Stanley Perry, Milwaukee county corporation counsel; Richard Barrett, assistant state attorney general and counsel to the state highway commission; James Burke, state revisor of statutes; Circuit Judge F. H. Schlichting of the fourth judicial circuit; and Bruce Thomas, Gov. Nelson's legal counsel.

Farmers are represented by William Kasakaitas, secretary of the Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation and Gilbert Rohde, president of the Wisconsin Farmers Union.

The four legislative members of the committee are Sen. Robert Dean, D-Rothschild; Sen. Allen Busby, R-Milwaukee; Assemblyman Leonard Mulder, D-La Crosse; and Assemblyman Everett Bidwell, R-Portage.

The committee will hold its first meeting in Milwaukee on Feb. 27.

Pentagon bookkeepers, in this case, had proved themselves more powerful than the joint chiefs of staff.

In its final form, the new budget projected forward the old trends of the new look.

Dulles Shifts View

During the increasingly heated debates over national security in 1956 and 1957, the attitude of the representatives of the state department was one of curious detachment.

However, in the course of discussions of the 1959 budget, Dulles first gave public evidence of loss of confidence in the massive retaliation policy. In the October, 1957, issue of Foreign Affairs, Dulles made what amounted to the expression of a strong hope that some military solution would eventually be found to permit lessened dependence upon massive retaliation. This hope, Dulles believed, lay in the development of the low-yield atomic weapons of the kind which the army had been seeking for years.

In the spring of 1958, Dulles pursued this theme in meetings with the secretary of defense and the chiefs of staff.

ceded his program would have an especially adverse impact on the army, but said it was based upon the approved policy to "maximize air power and minimize the foot soldier." If this were not the military policy of the United States, then he would concede the program was without foundation.

I waited for someone at the council table to challenge these words, but no voice was raised to gainsay their accuracy. Then the discussion shifted to whether the country would stand for a $38 billion budget. There was no consideration of the fundamental soundness of the background strategy of the program.

This defense program in its entirety was never specifically approved or disapproved. Nevertheless, it served as the point of departure for the 1959 budget. The army was told to plan on an end strength of 900,000 men for fiscal year 1958, and 850,000 for end fiscal 1959. All the services were given money ceilings in terms of expenditures rather than in obligations. This change required a new system of bookkeeping, for which the services were not prepared, and came to restrict the services severely in the efficient use of their funds.

Russians Help

Then, we received an unexpected, though temporary, assist from the Russians.

In the same way as the events in Hungary and Suez in the fall of 1956 had protected the strength of the military services, now in October 1957, the success of the Soviet satellite, Sputnik, proved a valuable ally in maintaining personnel levels and obtaining additional funds.

The joint chiefs of staff were invited to prepare for the secretary of defense a list of high-priority items not provided for in the basic 1959 budget. They unanimously recommended a list which totaled about $1.5 billion. Most of the items were for the benefit of the long-range missile programs, of the strategic air command and of antisubmarine warfare forces—in short, of general atomic war forces.

As an exception, the joint chiefs recommended $362 million for the Army, to permit it to retain a strength of 900,000 and to accomplish limited modernization. This was the one and only time that I ever received support from my colleagues to increase the strength of the Army, and I was understandably jubilant.

But there is a jingle bearing on Pentagon life which says: Nothing is complete. Neither victory nor defeat.

Bookkeepers Win

The defense department subsequently cut the $362 million to $198 million and the personnel strength to 870,000 men. The budget bureau reduced the money further to $146 million, of which $88 million was for Army modernization.

This proved illusory, however, as the defense department then reduced the army budget by essentially the same amount in another essential account to pay for this item. Thus, the only real gain was $58 million, of which $30 million was to support a 870,000 man strength and $28 million was for additional research and development. The staff.
